HOLDS UP OFFICE AT GUN POINT

Desperado Captured After Daylight Attempt to Rob B. & A. Office

William J. Clayton, a hold bandit, was captured in Boston yesterday afternoon in an attempt to rob the Boston and Albany office at 284 Washington street. In his diary turned over to the police was found an account of six similar robberies in which he escaped arrest and secured $1668.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—William J. Clayton, a six-foot western desperado, took busy Washington street at a time when it was thronged with people yesterday afternoon to exact the most daring attempt at holdup of a dozen men and women and robbing a big railroad office that Boston has ever had recorded in its annals of crime.

Entering the street floor office of the Boston and Albany railroad at 284 Washington street, the desperado, after buying a ticket to Pittsfield, suddenly turned on the entire office force with gun in hand, ordering everyone to retreat to the back of the store, as he was after the money in the cashier's cage.

At a time when it seemed that the daring invader would be successful in his undertaking, a visitor, George A. Fitzgibbon, city business agent of the Canadian Pacific road, slipped through a back door to give the alarm, which resulted in Clayton taking to his heels, followed by the office force.

Hundreds in Chase
After a sensational chase through the busiest part of Boston, with hundreds of citizens in pursuit, he was cornered in the latter shop of Joseph Albanian in Summer street, near the corner of Hawley.

A diary found in the pocket of the desperado at police headquarters shows entries of holdups at railroad offices in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Pittsfield, and Clayton last night confessed to being the man who has been terrorizing the railroad concerns during the past two weeks.

From every indication, it would appear that Clayton, after robbing a Philadelphia railroad office last Monday, came direct to Boston to operate. It was shortly after 4:30 that the man entered the Boston & Albany office in the Old South building, Joseph Fitzgibbon, the head clerk, waited on him at the counter while clerks were all about.

"I want a ticket to Pittsfield," said Clayton, leaning heavily on the counter and gazing toward the back of the office. Placing the ticket in his pocket he turned for the door as if to go out and reaching it he suddenly turned and came hurriedly back to the desk.

Fitzgibbon, thinking he wanted to ask another question, leaned forward to hear and he found himself "looking into the bore of a revolver."

"You get back and—quick—to the back of the office," he whispered. "And you, too—all of you," he shouted to the other clerks who were near the front counter.

Fitzgibbon and the rest made for the back office, leaving George A. Harker, assistant cashier, in the cashier's cage. "Now you get out of the cage and quick," commanded the desperado calmly, and in the face of an ugly revolver Harker complied quickly.

It was all done in a flash and the clerks in the back of the office, including Manager C. E. Colony and Miss Frances Perley, the stenographer, in whispers, sought to devise a way to get out of the back door and give the alarm.

"The robber heard the talk and leaving the counter for a moment rushed toward the back of the store and silenced them. James P. Glynn, one of the clerks, in the act of taking the revolver off the phone, was commanded to drop it quick.

Back to the counter ran Clayton, not noticing that he had left behind him close to the wall, just outside the rail, George Titcomb.

The cage empty, Clayton vaulted upon the counter just as Titcomb rushed for the back door. As it closed with a bang he uttered a curse, shouting, "It's queerer me," and leaping from the counter made for the door.

Just previous to his jumping from the counter, Manager Colony and Miss Perley determined to get through the back door, and made a rush, in spite of the gun pointed their way.

Hardly had the front door slammed on Clayton, than Fitzgibbon and Harker were after him.

Headless and coatless they rushed on to Washington street, and, seeing their man in the distance sprinting as if for life, they dashed after him. They shouted as they ran, and by the time Clayton reached the corner of Washington and Franklin streets nearly a hundred people were in pursuit.

Fifty yards ahead was Clayton and, as he neared Hawley street, he paused as if to draw his gun and the crowd halted an instant. Turning, with a fresh burst of speed, Clayton dashed up Hawley street. Well in the lead were the three, Fitzgibbon, Harker and every stride and, as the hunted man neared Summer street and turned toward the South station, he seemed to realize this, for suddenly he left the sidewalk and plunged through the doorway of Joseph Albanian's barber shop, where he sank into a chair.

In company with Officer Jacobus of Station 2, who had joined them, Harker saved the man from disappearing through the doorway. The officer entered the shop and Clayton surrendered without a struggle.

Held in $5000
BOSTON, Jan. 16.—After lodging a formal charge of attempted robbery against William Monague, alias Clayton, who made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to hold up an uptown railroad ticket office at the point of a revolver the local authorities continued today their investigation of his record, which they declare is particularly interesting from a criminal viewpoint.

Monague was held for the grand jury in $5000 bonds and he was handed back to the police for further examination.

Run-down System

Built Up By Head's Sarsaparilla

In many cases of general debility Head's Sarsaparilla has shown its great intrinsic medicinal worth, as in the case of Mrs. J. U. Bickford, Crossville, N. H., who writes: "Whenever I have suffered, as in the spring, from a general run-down condition of the system, prostration, dyspepsia, weakness, that tired feeling—I have taken Head's Sarsaparilla, and it has effected a complete restoration to health."

ELKS' BALL AT ASSOCIATE HALL LAST NIGHT WAS A BRILLIANT AFFAIR AND HIGHLY ENJOYED

WILLIAM D. REGAN
General Manager

ELIAS J. McQUADE, JR.
Floor Director

JOHN J. DAWSON
Chief Aid

The annual Elks' ball has always been one of the social successes of the winter season, and this year's affair was no exception to the general rule. In fact, considering the large number who attended, it probably eclipsed the brilliant efforts of former years. The ball was held last night in Associate hall and was given by Lowell lodge, No. 57, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. After the dancing over, the valets adjourned to the lodge rooms in Middle street, where there was a supper and entertainment. A very efficient committee has been working for a long time in preparation for the event, and they certainly succeeded in providing an evening of thorough enjoyment and unalloyed pleasure for the hundreds of their friends who were present. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion by C. F. Young. The balcony and walls were hung with purple and white bunting, while streamers in the same shades, and rows of incandescent lights were gracefully brought down from the center chandelier to the sides of the hall. The stage was decorated most artistically. Bunting in the Elks colors, purple and white, was used as a background, and against this were draped five large American flags. Beneath the flags was a clock, with the hands set at 11 o'clock, and on which there were the initials, B. P. O. E. Banks of ferns and palms hid the orchestra from view, while on the sides and in front of the stage a dainty trellis furnished an admirable setting for greenery and gracefully drooping wisteria blossoms in lavender, white and pink. Bright colored lights were hidden among the flowers and showed up effectively. The light of the chandeliers was softened by purple shades.

NEW INDICTMENT AGAINST MELLEN

And Other Railroad Officials Expected to be Handed Up by Federal Grand Jury

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—New indictments against Messrs. Mellen and Chamberlin, president respectively of the New Haven and the Grand Trunk roads and Alfred Smithers of the Grand Trunk board of directors, were expected to be handed up by the federal grand jury this afternoon. The three recently were indicted for alleged participation in a "monopoly agreement" between the two roads in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law but counsel for the defendants subsequently filed a plea of abatement charging that one of the grand jurors was not a resident of New York and that this invalidated the indictment. To meet this situation it was reported that the government had substituted another grand juror for Albert Stephens, whose residence was questioned and planned thus to insure the validity of superseding indictment.

NEW YORK SUGAR CASE AVIATOR JONES FELL

Presented to Supreme Court for Second Time

Met With Accident at Providence

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—For the second time the New York sugar "lighterage" case was presented today to the supreme court. The case involves the question of whether an allowance of railroads to a Brooklyn sugar refinery for lightening sugar from New York harbor to the railroad terminals was a discrimination against other sugar refineries in the vicinity. The interstate commerce commission held that it was. The commerce court temporarily enjoined the enforcement of the order and the case was taken to the supreme court, which upheld the commerce court. Recently the commerce court permanently enjoined the enforcement of the order, and it was an appeal from this order which was up today for argument. The case figured prominently in the impeachment of Robert W. Archibald as a judge of the commerce court.

Providence, Jan. 16.—Starting off on the second leg of his Boston-New York flight today, Harry Jones, the aviator, fell and badly damaged his machine. He was unhurt. Before he had been able to attain a high altitude he found himself head foremost into a number of wires along the track and in trying to avoid the wires he dropped. He had planned to circle around the state house dome and then start for New London.

BOYS HELD IN $500

In Connection With Death

of Japanese

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Two Charlestown boys, Frank Carroll, 15, and Richard Powers, 13, were arraigned in the district court today on charges growing out of the death of Hashi Harkori, a Japanese, whose body was found in an alleyway Tuesday night. Because of their youth, the defendants were held as delinquent children and will be given a hearing Jan. 18. Judge Briggs fixed bonds at $500. Timothy Lacey, another 15-year old lad, was held as a witness.

Powers has confessed to robbing the Japanese, claiming that Carroll first struck the victim with a club, according to the police. The boys were arrested last night.

WANT SEPARATE SLEEPING ROOMS

Members of Seven Fire Stations Petition Ald. Cummings for Individual Apartments

The members of seven local fire stations have sent a petition to Commissioner Cummings, requesting that their respective houses be equipped with individual sleeping rooms. Mr. Cummings will submit the proposition to the members of the municipal council tomorrow.

The occupants of the local fire stations who are not supplied with individual sleeping rooms have petitioned the commissioner of public buildings and licenses for the same, and the matter will be brought to the council's attention at tomorrow's meeting.

The stations not equipped with individual sleeping rooms are the following: Gorham street, branch street, Palmer street, High street, Mammoth road, Lawrence street and Westford street. The members of Engine 5 in Mammoth road, however, are willing to let the matter go to next year. Commissioner Cummings said this morning he would bring the proposition before the municipal council and let the latter take the course desired.

Steel Vaults

Supt. Frank Connor of the public building department has draughted plans for the record vaults to be erected at the police station in Market street in compliance with the state's wishes, and the estimate cost of the work is $12,500. The vault will be of steel with two-inch walls of brick and asbestos, and will be absolutely fireproof, and will be built by the department.

The council at its meeting tomorrow will decide what will be done in reference to the vaults.

Contract For Wagon Shed

The contract for the construction of the wagon shed, an addition to the city stable in Broadway, has not as yet been awarded, although Mathias Connors was the lowest bidder, and the reason for this is that the engineer department is making an investigation on the claims of the Whitney heirs, who through their counsel claim that the city will take up some of their land in the rear of the stable. As soon as the engineer department has its finding ready, the same by advice of the city solicitor, will be sent to the claimants and the contract for the construction of the wagon shed will be awarded and work will be started at once.

Scarlet Fever

The number of scarlet fever cases is gradually decreasing. Today only one case was reported at the board of health office.

Sewer Work

As voted by the municipal council at the last meeting the men are repairing the sewer in Fairview street for the comfort station. The work is being done prior to the contractor laying his concrete floor. It has been decided to lay iron pipes in order to prevent any possibility of water leaking into the underground comfort station.

Election Reports

Harvey B. Greene, who was defeated for commissioner at the recent election, has filed his report with the city clerk. He expended $150.75.

WIFE LYING DEAD--HUSBAND DYING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—His wife lying dead at the foot of the stairs down which she had fallen, Robert Simpson, 82 years old, and helpless with a broken leg, was found in a starving condition late yesterday with two gaunt dogs eyeing him hungrily. Physicians at the hospital where he was removed today have slight hope of his recovery. The aged couple, who were in comfortable circumstances, lived alone. Mrs. Simpson, who was 65 years old, is believed to have plunged to her death Saturday and since then the aged man had been without food or attention. When found Simpson was speechless from exhaustion and starvation.

STOMACH MISERY

JUST VANISHES.

Time it! No indigestion, Gas or Sourness Five Minutes After Taking "Pape's Diapiesin."

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, flatulency, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapiesin costs only fifty cents and will probably cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapiesin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapiesin cranks as some people will call them, but you will be cranks about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

SEND APPEAL FOR HELP TWO FIREMEN OVERCOME FOUND BODY IN TRUNK

Families in Flood District Request Aid

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—The Ohio river today passed the highest stage reported in several years and was expected to reach further higher before the crest of the flood passed. Many families have been driven to the second stories of their homes by the rising tide. Small towns in the trade district of this county are sending appeals for help as the food supplies are being exhausted. Many of these places have been cut off for a week because the high water has made it impossible to reach the submerged landings. The situation is very serious, practically all the food has been exhausted in the flood district.

BALKAN ALLIES FIRM

War Will Reopen Unless Turkey Yields

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Balkan nations have not weakened in their determination to reject the war unless Turkey accepts their terms quickly. In defiance to the powers they may withhold the execution of their resolve a few days longer than seemed likely yesterday.

They wish the world to know that their policy is unchanged. As allies they inaugurated the doctrine of "the Balkans for the Balkan peoples" at a time when it appeared almost preposterous folly to the great nations of Europe and they declare now that they propose to maintain the right which their allied allies won to be considered a great independent nation and manage their own diplomacy according to their own views of what their national interests demand.

Miss Gertrude Robinson, the temporary high school teacher from Concord Junction, has introduced to the pupils of the ninth grade a circulating library, the books being furnished by herself and the teachers. The school and the new establishment owned by Mr. Walter Furlong of Westford street is doing a thriving business, having made over 200,000 gallons of cider this year. He also has 50,000 gallons of vinegar.

Mr. Ernest T. Manson of Hallowell, Me., formerly and much better known as Miss Ida Gardner, the former high school teacher, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleming of North street, also visiting all the grades in the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols of North street have had their future brightened by the birth of a little baby daughter.

All the grades at the Centre school had their pictures taken yesterday by Mr. Dodge, photographer, in two poses, one in a serious and one in a laughing mood.

Woman Had Been Missing Since Tuesday

AMENSBURY, Jan. 15.—When Alphonse Victorino went back to his home on Bond street last night after notifying the police that his wife had been missing since Tuesday morning, he found her body in a trunk in her bed room. The medical examiner arranged to hold an inquest this morning. The body of the woman, who was 47 years old, was crowded into the trunk and the cover was shut down.

Deserted on Wedding Day

CLINTON, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Lillian May Furlong of Clinton was granted a divorce decree from Harold A. Furlong by Judge John B. Ratigan in the jury waived sessions of the superior court yesterday, following interesting testimony of her married life of three hours.

Married at 5 o'clock and deserted before 11 the same evening, was the story told by Mrs. Furlong to Judge Ratigan when her divorce trial was read. Mr. and Mrs. Furlong went from the church to the home of relatives and after a few hours' visit with the family, Furlong disappeared, never to return.

Judge Ratigan called attention to the short length of time that the couple were living as husband and wife, but granted the divorce decree on strength of authorities presented by counsel for Mrs. Furlong. The case has been in the superior court docket for several months.

BATTLE HOME

Corporation Met and Elected New Officers for ensuing Year—Contributions are Necessary

The members of the Battle Home corporation for aged men held its annual meeting recently and elected the following officers: A. D. Carter, president; Wm. T. Sheppard, treasurer; Walter H. Howe, secretary. The following were elected directors: A. D. Carter, Amasa Pratt, C. W. Whidden, H. Kirk White, Rev. Charles T. Billings, Rev. Appleton Grannis, Wm. T. Sheppard, Miss N. D. H. Robbins and Walter H. Howe.

As the sources of this institution are becoming more and more limited they find it necessary to seek contributions to establish a sufficient fund for the work. The home was founded in 1901 by residents of Boston and Lowell and many friends of the institution have been successful in securing contributions. This is the first occasion on which the corporation has been forced to resort to outside contributions.

MYSTERY IS CLEARED

Lynn Quartet Charged With Many Burglaries

LYNN, Jan. 15.—In the arrest of two young men and two young women last night the police believe they have cleared up the mystery of the numerous burglaries of summer homes in Swampscott, Clifton and Marblehead during the fall and winter. William Hayes of Lynn and J. O. Porter of Marblehead were arrested in the summer residence of Herbert Gale on Atlantic street, Swampscott. They had locked themselves in a bathroom and had with them two suit cases filled with articles picked up in the house.

Some time later the girls, Estelle Langdon, 17 years old, of Salem, and Ida Lalpin, 19, of Peabody, called at the police station to see the prisoners. The arrest of the young women followed after some questioning the girls told officers to a lodging-house on Washington street where they occupied a room, and disclosed a great quantity of articles later identified as having been stolen from the summer home of Samuel Shuman of Boston, at Clifton. From a room in a local hotel which Porter had occupied the police recovered property stolen from the summer home of J. H. Buckmaster of Boston at Marblehead.

A police ambulance was nearby filled with the recovered articles which included opera cloaks, fancy dress, jewelry, silverware and clocks, the whole being estimated to be worth fully $2000.

The police say the girls admitted having been at the Shuman and Buckmaster homes last Monday night with Porter and another man whose name is not known and who has not yet been arrested. The four will be given a hearing today.

$150,000 LOSS BY FIRE

Block in Millinocket, Me., Destroyed

MILLINOCKET, Me., Jan. 15.—Fire which started in the establishment of F. H. Banks, plumber and painter, last night destroyed the Mackessary block, a three-story building in the heart of the business section of this town and the loss is estimated at $150,000. The fire was discovered at 8:30 and had gained such headway that 10 hydrant streams failed to check it. As soon as it was realized that the block was doomed the firemen turned their attention to saving surrounding property which appeared to be in danger of a late hour. On the first floor of the block in addition to the Banks store were those of Daniel Hibel and John Riley, a tailor, and the second floor was occupied by the offices of Dr. J. S. Stevens and Fred E. Doyle, an attorney, together with Doyle's home. The Mackessary hall, one of the best in this part of the state, was on the third floor. None of the occupants saved their belongings.

WALKER DESERTS G.O.P.

Now Bull Moose-Weeks' Election Did It

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Ex-Speaker Joseph Walker, the republican candidate for governor in the last campaign, has left the republican party, of which he has been a lifelong member, and has joined the progressives.

In a statement given out last night, he declared that in the election of John W. Weeks to the United States senate the republican party showed that it is dominated by reactionary forces.

Walker's Statement.—The election of John W. Weeks to the United States senate can have but one meaning, namely, that the republican party in Massachusetts is to be permanently dominated by the old reactionary leadership, with which I have no sympathy and in which I do not believe.

"There seems to me now no hope of a reorganization of the republican party in which progressive principles or progressive leadership will be recognized."

"The legislature can be dominated by private and special interests in the selection of a United States senator. It can be dominated by the same interests in matters of legislation. The same methods which have been used by these interests, acting through a political machine, to elect their representatives to the senate, may be used to affect legislation in which they are interested."

"In spite of myself, I am at last convinced that there is but one effective remedy, namely, to revise our political machinery, so that the people may not only nominate and elect all representatives directly, but also may legislate directly whenever their interests demand such action."

"I, therefore, will hereafter co-operate with those who are trying to devise a practicable and satisfactory method of initiative and referendum. I am convinced that this is necessary in order to free the people from the domination of the private and special interests which have so clearly proved their power to control the legislature."

"In Massachusetts we have arrived at the parting of the ways. The republican party, under the domination of the old leadership, has definitely rejected all progressives. As a progressive, I feel that there is no longer any place for me in the republican party."

"I, therefore, with deep feelings of regret, renounce my allegiance to the republican party of which I have been an active member all my life. And I join the progressive party, with which I am in real sympathy, and the success of which, I believe, will make for social welfare."

"Now is the time for all progressives in Massachusetts to leave the republican party and build up the new liberal party already established under the name 'progressive.' While a fundamental principle of this new party will always be absolute independence of private and special interests and complete reliance on the people, still it will stand firmly for the protection of all legitimate business interests."

"I urge all liberal republicans earnestly to consider this proposition and take such action as will end, forever the dominance in politics of those who have some interest to serve other than the public interest."

KING ADAMS IS DEAD

Ruler of Swan Island

Died in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—King Adams is dead. Alonzo Adams, the monarch of Swan Island in the Caribbean Sea, died at the Massachusetts General hospital of cardiac trouble yesterday, after an illness of five days. His body was taken charge of by relatives in East Hampton, Conn., for burial.

King Adams, of whom much has been written, was a picturesque character, whose occasional visits to Boston were chronicled by the press.

Years ago as a shrewd Yankee skipper, Captain Adams discovered that Swan Island, off the coast of Honduras, in the Gulf of Mexico, was unclaimed by any power and that it was fertile and worth while. He squatted upon it. He died more—he became king of it. His family followed him to the island. The native blacks multiplied and took kindly to their new king's rule.

Cocanuts and fruits were raised and shipped. His little fishing vessel was used thereafter to transport the island's produce to the mainland. Sometimes a trip was taken to Boston or New York.

These were veritable outings for the captain, though business always figured in the trips. The island was divided by a rocky channel. As a whole the territory is 40 miles in circumference and five miles across.

On the more dangerous shore of the island, King Adams caused to be erected, after some years of prosperity and boom, a lighthouse, to warn vessels of the perilous reefs, and also for signaling purposes. All ships in those seas knew Captain Adams personally, and would stop on signal. The king's home was on a little eminence overlooking the harbor.

Alonzo Adams was the king, secretary, treasurer, boss farmer, board of trade and press agent, and there is every reason to believe he fulfilled every trust with credit and profit to all concerned.

He Knows Owner.—WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 16.—A curious thing occurred at the Wilmington police station yesterday, when A. L. White, a farmer near Silver Brook, a suburb, went the station house to identify chickens that had been stolen from him by Frank Johnson, a negro, a hen actually ran to him and began vigorously pecking at his trousers.

"Why, there is old Jennie," exclaimed the farmer. "She knows me. She has been a pet of my family for over a year."

All the while the chicken rubbed against White pretty much as a cat would do. Then, as though to show her attitude, she went into a cackling and laid an egg. Afterwards she clucked loudly.

This upset the negro's denials of guilt and his claims that he owned the chicken. He was held for trial.

FOUR BOUTS SCHEDULED

For Tomorrow Night's Meeting of Local Club

Battling Gunboat Eldridge, who is matched to meet Joe Thomas, the clever California middleweight before the members of the Lowell A. C. tomorrow night arrived in Boston Tuesday. Yesterday Eldridge took to the road and in the afternoon he did enough rough training and boxing to satisfy the most ardent followers that he will be fit and prime for a rough encounter with the Adonis of the ring sport, Joe Thomas. Eldridge has collected the services of Billy Sylvester, a handler of boxers whose success in turning out winners is second to none in the country. Sylvester managed and trained Chicago Jim Barry for many of his most important battles and he is bending every effort to bring Eldridge too Lowell in the best of boxing form.

Eldridge and his party will travel to Lowell early Friday and will close up his training tonight. The Cape Cod boxer is lighter and faster than he ever was in his life having worked off in the time that he has been working down on the Cape upwards of some 10 pounds. He looks forward to giving the Thomas adherents the surprise of their lives and is confident that he will score a signal victory well before the 12 rounds have expired. Thomas is in great condition and is confident of coming out the long end. The semi-final will be furnished by Henry Myers of Charlestown and Young Belmont of Lawrence. Young Conner and Kid George, will clash in one of the preliminaries, and at a meeting of the directors held last night it was decided to put on one more six round number. This will be given by Kid Pastime and Young Carroll. The directors decided to have the four bouts and rush them through quickly so that the out of town members may get cars after the meeting. The first bout will start promptly at 8.15.

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 16.—That their signatures were secured to a note for $42,000 by means of conspiracy entered into by the late William A. General Pew is a son of the late William A. Pew, cashier of the bank, and himself the president of the bank for the past 10 years.

Startling Conditions.

The investigation of the suits has revealed startling conditions relative to the estate of the late William A. Pew and the condition of the City National bank which has stirred banking circles of the North Shore and Boston as seldom before.

It is openly stated and admitted by some stockholders of the bank that when the atmosphere is cleared the stocks of the dead bank, which in 1891 was quoted at $150 per share and during the succeeding 10 years jumped to $300 per share and sold at this price as late as 1903, will net the holders absolutely nothing.

The directors claim that mismanagement of the bank and unfortunate stock and bond investments are the causes of the downfall.

FIVE MEN OVERCOME AT NORTH CHELMSFORD

Narrowly Escape Death Meetings of C. O. F. and Dux Christus Club

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Five workmen were made unconscious by escaping gas from a large main in the subway excavation for the extension of the East Boston tunnel, and the corner of Hanover and Court streets, early last night, and were rescued from their perilous positions 20 feet below the street by a number of fellow-workmen, headed by James McCool of 21 Dover street, night foreman.

The five men were taken to the Revere hospital and after the surgeons had worked for 30 minutes over them they were pronounced out of danger, but remained at the hospital in a weak condition.

Austin E. Joyce of 20 Oakwood street, Dorchester, foreman in charge of the iron rod construction; John Langley of 11 Summer street, Somerville; Rochi Fone of 20 Shattuck street, James Santangelo of 8 Noyes place, North End, and Nathaniel Briggs, 64 Sidney street, Cambridge.

The men were at work in the hole about 20 feet from the street surface when Hyman Markovitz of 14 Billerica street, looking into the hole, smelled the escaping gas. He ran over to Rochi Fone and called his attention to the gas.

Fone ran over to the hole and, looking down, smelled the gas and called to the men he knew were at work below, but received no answer. He climbed down the straight ladder into the hole and found them all unconscious.

Hardly had he tried to make a sound so that the men on the street would hear him before he was overcome by the gas but managed to climb to the street where he fell in a heap.

By this time Foreman McCool had heard of the trouble and gathering a number of workmen he, followed by Joseph Jackson, Paul P. Murray of 25 Standish street and his step-brother, John E. O'Connell, went down into the hole and soon had the four unconscious men at the top.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see, that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints."

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory."

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

HOME RULE BILL IN FINAL STAGE

Premier Asquith Defends it With Eloquence—Balfour Makes Able Speech

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The home rule bill started on its final stage in the house of commons yesterday, and the occasion was marked by two speeches seldom excelled in the house, by the prime minister, Herbert H. Asquith, and Mr. Balfour, the former leader of the opposition, who have few equals as parliamentarians.

Other speakers representing all parties followed, and the debate finally was adjourned until today, when division will be taken.

The literature which previous bills of a similar nature aroused in the past was largely absent in the discussion yesterday, but with the hardest hitters on the program for today this may not be continued.

All the parties have issued special whips to members requesting attendance for the division tonight, when demonstrations are expected.

Balfour's Telling Speech

When the orders of the day were called and Mr. Balfour, at the request of the opposition leader, Andrew Bonar Law, moved the rejection of the measure, the house was crowded to its capacity and every seat in the galleries was occupied by interested listeners.

Mr. Balfour, who has been absent from parliament for some weeks, while not so fluent as the prime minister, delivered one of those telling speeches for which he is famous and which roused his supporters to great enthusiasm.

He dealt with the bill in a general way, and particularly laid stress on the case of Ulster, the present condition of which he likened to that of the American colonies before the revolution. He charged the government with showing a dangerous want of appreciation of the position of that section.

Pointing his finger at the government bench, Mr. Balfour concluded: "Something will arise to stir the people of this country and make them realize what it is that Ulstermen complain of. If blood be spilled—which God forbid—the real assassins will be those who have never had the courage to face the situation."

O'Connor for Nationalists

Premier Asquith defended the bill from every standpoint. He pleaded with the house to forget the past and give Ireland what the vast majority demanded.

He laid stress on the safeguards introduced in the bill to prevent "Protestants, who being oppressed by the majority and repeated the government's offer to insert any other reasonable safeguards, if only the opposition would tell what was wanted."

The premier recalled that Mr. Balfour had made the same gloomy predictions as he did yesterday when the liberals gave self-government to So. Africa.

The Unionists and Liberals continued the debate until after dinner, when T. P. O'Connor gave the bill his blessing in behalf of the Nationalists.

Non-Thomas C. R. Ager, Robert, one of the two liberals opposing the measure, regretted the refusal of the government to hold the olive branch to the Ulsterites and denounced the bill as one of coercion. Unless the Ulster question was settled, he said, the bill was foredoomed to failure. His announcement that he was obliged to vote against the third reading was received with opposition cheers.

Ulster's Protest Voted

William O'Brien, leader of the independent Nationalists, criticized the provisions of the bill, and said that while he could not accept it as a final settlement of the Nationalists' requirements, they regarded it as a sincere and courageous message of peace to Ireland.

He suggested that if the former chief secretaries and under secretaries to Ireland and three representative Irishmen, including John E. Redmond

Mrs. Stewart Tells How She Suffered from 16 to 45 years old—How Finally Cured.

Euphemis, Ohio.—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedies but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years.

"The Change of Life came when I was 37 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or any one the relief it gave me in the first three months. It put me in the first three months. It put me in the first three months. It put me in the first three months.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot over estimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing since I was 32 years old. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."

Predicts Friction

Mr. Balfour criticized the financial scheme of the bill on the ground that it gave Ireland rights too great for the fiscal interests of the United Kingdom, but too small to satisfy any one with the most meagre notions of the powers appropriate to nationality.

He predicted endless friction between the exchequers of the two countries. The promoters of the bill, he said, were evidently nervous lest Ireland should have the full liberty given to other of the nation's dominions to regulate their own fiscal and industrial matters.

It was an absurdity, if the British people thought they were going to get a scheme of federation for the government in disintegration. If they were going to cut the United Kingdom into fragments, he declared, there was no more money and inevitable ruin than that of the northeast of Ireland from the rest of Ireland. The government had not comprehended Ulster's feelings; that lack of comprehension was dangerous.

"No one would say," continued Mr. Balfour, "that the Roman Catholics will persecute the old style, or deliberately persecute the minority at all. But will that reconcile the minority in the north of Ireland to live under the control of the majority, where for generations religion and politics have been mixed up and under the control of the majority who have complete control of education and patronage? Ulster men will be in a high parliament to be taxed, not to tax."

Asquith Defends Bill

In rising to reply, the prime minister said: "The sentiments, traditions and moral and economic conditions which have made the Irish question what it now is have not been taken into consideration by the right honorable gentleman. In spite of past history the Irish national movement, has passed from the stage of sentiment and is now an organized and practical reality.

"We cannot ignore the fact that if this bill is rejected we will stand in our own path the organized and permanent expression of the demand of a majority of the Irish people. In view of the strength of this demand what are the opposition going to do?"

He asked—and loud Irish and liberal cheers greeted the challenge—if Ireland had a different position than any other portion of the empire, and continued: "It would be pedantry, not statesmanship, to treat her in any other way than that proposed under the bill."

"What is the claim put forward in behalf of Ulster, or rather those particular counties situated in the north-eastern part of the province?" he demanded. "It is the minority's right to be protected, to be protected not only against injustice, but against suspicion or apprehension of injustice. I would go to any length in that direction. But the plan put forward to defeat a great constitutional demand is absolutely fatal to democratic government."

Redmonds Idea of Friction

Mr. Asquith ridiculed the idea of friction between the two parliaments under the bill.

The prime minister continued: "In holding a government it is always necessary to take the risks you run. We have been justified by experience; we have had our reward—more than our reward—in the increased loyalty and affection of the empire as a whole. We believe—consciously believe—that this will happen again."

"Let us now analyze the speciousness of one side or the other, as if weighing in the balance the burden of blame. On both sides bitter words have been spoken, bad things done. Almost from the first, unkindly fate seemed to breed over these two islands, to frustrate their common life and sever their national unity. Time after time, when they were coming together, the web which bound about to be woven of reciprocal interests and affection has been torn asunder, as under the spell of some malignant fate.

"Let us do our part to exorcise once for all this baneful influence and join two peoples meant to be one, whom the changes of history, the complex character of feeling, the foibles and passions of men have kept apart, in fruitful and enduring union."

HONORED BY ALBANY

Cardinal O'Connell and the President Rector of the American College at Rome, guests at luncheon.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—Members of the national association of the American College at Rome, now prelates in the Catholic churches of the archdiocese of Boston, met at the Hotel Somerset yesterday afternoon for their annual reunion and election of officers.

To make this gathering one of special importance to them they had present as guests both Cardinal O'Connell, honorary president of the association, and Rt. Rev. Bishop Thomas J. Kennedy, now rector of the American college, who is in this country on a visit.

Each speaker was given a warm greeting for the annual appreciation how much the institution owes to them in their positions as presidents of the college. Cardinal O'Connell held that place for some years, previous to his appointment to the office of bishop of Portland, and under him the institution made great strides of advancement, while Bishop Kennedy has also given his administration marked by unusual executive ability.

Brief addresses were made by both prelates, but for the most part the gathering was of an informal nature. These officers were chosen: Rt. Rev. Mar. P. J. Surpate, rector of St. John's church, Roxbury, spiritual director of the Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic societies, president; Rt. Rev. M. J. Spillane, rector of the cathedral, secretary; Rev. Dr. Leo J. Knappe, Newton Upper Falls, treasurer.

plause. The pretty gowns worn by the young ladies added to the attractiveness of the scene while the march was in progress. Miss Frances C. Molloy, who led the march with Floor Director Elias J. McQuade, was charming in a delectable gown of white champagne, en train, with an overdress of Dresden-bordered chiffon, with trimmings of shadow lace and rosebud clusters. She carried a huge bouquet of pink roses, with pink ribbon streamers. Miss Harriet W. Hamblett, who was second in the march, with Eugene Y. Brown, wore a white, meringue dress, en train, with a fancy erise overdress, edged with white swansdown. Next in line came Joseph Haggerty and Miss Elizabeth Haggerty, whose dress was of white silk marquisette trimmed with lace, with a pink meringue sash.

The full line of the march is as follows: Floor Director Elias J. McQuade and Miss Frances C. Molloy; Eugene Y. Brown and Miss Harriet W. Hamblett; Joseph Haggerty and Miss Elizabeth Haggerty; William D. Regan and Mrs. C. M. Roushman; Hon. James E. O'Donnell and Miss Rose Hearn; David Grogan and Miss Rose Chapman; John J. Hovey; Mr. and Mrs. Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Filling; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shanahan; James Quinn and Miss Vera Quinn.

After the grand march the first waltz was started and dancing continued through a pleasantly varied program of 11 dances and four extras. A waltz of the most enjoyable character was one of the order, while the three quadrilles were perhaps the most popular dances of the whole evening, and were occasions for much merriment and jollity for those who took part as well as for the spectators.

At 11 o'clock the lights in the hall went out and the big clock on the stage was illuminated while William D. Regan gave the toast to the absent members. There was a solemn hush through the hall as the guests, many of them for the first time, witnessed the impressive ceremony, which marks the annual gatherings of the Elks. At the conclusion of Mr. Regan's speech, Commissioner James E. Donnelly sang a verse of "Auld Lang Syne." At midnight the dancing stopped, and the scene of festivities was transferred to the lodge rooms on Middle street, where an elaborate supper was served. During the supper the orchestra entertained with selections of popular songs and after the tables were cleared there was an informal musical program, with numbers by the well known pianist, James E. Donnelly, and professional talent. Mr. Donnelly gave several of his clever Scotch improvisations, including the song that he sang last Friday at city hall before Harry Lauder.

The officers of the evening were: General Manager, William D. Regan; Assist. Gen. Manager, Wm. E. Murphy; Floor Director, Elias J. McQuade; First Asst. Floor Director, Eugene Y. Brown; Second Asst. Floor Director, Joseph Haggerty; Director of Grand March, Thomas H. Boyle.

GOATS TO EAT BUSHES

Artillerymen Ordered to Protect "Nannies"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—White is small army of goats is deployed from Fort Washington, one of the citadels guarding the Potomac river approach to the national capital, to wage war on the shrubbery that is a breeding ground of mosquitoes, a flying swarm of artillerymen probably will be ordered out to protect the goats. This was practically determined upon today. The goats will work for the benefit of the fort's garrison by eating up the rank underbrush while the soldiers will return the compliment by shooting their horned allies away from the mountain forest bushes which play havoc with their digestion. Fort Washington has the reputation of being the most malarial fort in the war department. And the soldiers suffered from this affliction.

The department of agriculture being appealed to recently, announced that such plants as poison ivy and poison oak were deleterious to goats. It warned against mountain laurel beds, however, as being a deleterious diet and declared the plant flourishing in the vicinity of the fort. Forty goats are to be turned loose in the mosquito war. How many soldier wardens will be employed is not yet known.

Sale of Standard Oil Letter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—A written acknowledgment purporting to have been signed by Charles Stump on Aug. 1, 1905, that he disposed of certain Standard Oil letters to Mr. Chamberlain and "Mr. McNamara" of the New York Journal for a consideration was placed in evidence today before the senate campaign contribution committee by George Stump, a brother of Charles. George Stump said he got his brother to sign the paper and witnessed it himself.

CURLERS ALL OVER COUNTRY AND CANADA GETTING READY FOR THE BIG SPIEL AT ST. PAUL, MINN.

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 15.—Starting Jan. 20, St. Paul will be the mecca for curlers from all parts of the United States and Canada where the great winter sport is enjoyed, and for one solid week the new clubhouse of the Curling club of St. Paul will be as busy as a beehive. The Northwest-ern hospital is the big blue ribbon event in the curling calendar, and brings together the pick of the granite heavers, and this year's event promises to eclipse all others. Since the weather permitted curling the local club members have been exerting themselves to the limit to get into condition for the spiel, and the results of their games so far indicate that already many of them are in fine form. Shots such as are brought out in the keen competition of the big bonspiels have been executed with apparent ease by several of the local stars, and the indications are that St. Paul will be represented by eight or ten crack links. Paul Dunbar the man who put the curl in curling, is showing the same old time ability with the stones. He has visited the club regularly in the afternoon since the opening of the season and has put in from one to two hours perfecting his shots, and when it comes time for the spiel he can be counted on to furnish some of the visitors an exceedingly interesting time. Upper picture shows Bob Dunbar in action; lower one, curlers practicing for the spiel.

HE SLIDES HEAD FIRST

Turner of Cleveland the Only Player

Experience has shown, and baseball men in all the leagues are gradually coming to learn, that there ought to be just one best way of sliding to bases—that being the fallaway slide. The best base stealers of both leagues are those who are artists in this method of "hitting the dirt," and indications point to the fact that before many seasons are past knowledge of the fallaway will be universal in the big leagues. And when it is the record of the best base stealers should be greatly improved.

one particular method of getting to bases, will still retain that method despite the fact that the fallaway is rapidly becoming used by the majority of leading base runners.

There are some men who have learned how to slide one way and, having arrived at a degree of perfection in that respect, care to learn no other, and, indeed, need not learn any other, being masters in their own individual style. Turner of Cleveland is a notable example of head first slide, reckoned by most ball players to be the most dangerous of all ways of going into a bag. One using this method must of necessity close his eyes or get them out of dirt, consequently if the ball is fumbled and rolls away it takes the man employing this manner of getting to a bag precious seconds at times to get his bearings before he can go on. Again, the danger of sliding the head first is absolutely nothing, to the no mean satisfaction of the man guarding the base.

It is true, of course, that the majority of infielders in the excitement of the slide do not fear the danger of getting out, but nevertheless if a man in charge of any bag knows that his opponent is coming toward him head first instead of feet first obviously this fact is going to cause him to increase his efforts at tagging the runner with more security.

Turner, however, seems to be a most successful exception. He slides with his cotton top foremost in same after game and always seems to come up unscathed and successful.

Otis Johnson, formerly with the New York Highlanders and now with Rochester, has a stereotyped way of his own when it comes to getting into bases. He goes in with great speed, with the upper portion of his body at right angles to his legs, both feet pointing directly to the base. And if the ball is fumbled he is up and off like a shot, seeming to have no difficulty in getting his legs under him for another sprint when it is necessary.

But, after all is said and done, it seems that the fallaway slide as developed by the man who is probably its best exponent, Ty Cobb, will be the one to come into general use in all the leagues. It is the most reliable, entailing as it does, exposure of only a fractional part of the slider's body to be touched, and that portion being generally the most dangerous—to wit, his spikes. In addition, it enables the runner to go in with his eyes open, thus giving him the opportunity of twisting away from the tagger as well as giving him a good start toward the next base in case of a fumble; the slide being performed on one side and in such way that it takes an infinitesimal part of a second to get on the feet again and be off to the next base.

Donovan Proud of His Son Mike Donovan, the white haired instructor of the many art at the New York A. C., is as proud as a peacock these days. Mike's son has developed into a sterling boxer who has been making rapid strides as a professional.

Young Donovan is rapidly growing. He boxes daily with his father, who is teaching him all the fancy steps and points which soon will make him a champion, perhaps. The youngster possesses natural skill, but still lacks a heavy wallop. He will acquire one in time, however, and then Donovan, Sr., will be happy.

The old gentleman, once a star middleweight, still knows how to scrap. He is more than sixty years old, but is hale and hearty. He will tell you that boxing is the most beneficial exercise known to civilization and that a man who knows how to handle himself need not fear anything. Mike Donovan's method of living has been clean, and his present good state of health proves it.

Dress Warned

There are some girls who fancy they can harden their constitutions without deterioration to endure the severities of our changing climate and in the attempt lay aside or never adopt all the protection nature demands. All such foolish efforts are attended by an expenditure of nervous energy which could be advantageously applied to many wiser ambitions. Nervous energy is equivalent to life force, and to endeavor to sustain it without the aid of proper clothing simply means gradual or, not infrequently, precipitate self destruction.

When we consider how many of the poor yearly succumb to the exhaustion of vital force which has been proved to be a result of the lack of proper clothing it seems not only the sheerest folly, but absolute rebellion against nature, to deprive oneself of the most powerful weapon in the struggle for existence, with the expectation of controlling or outwitting nature's laws.

A YOUNG BILLIARDIST

14 Year Old Boy Coming Champion

The title of champion billiard player of the world may soon rest on the head of a fourteen-year-old boy, about as big as a cue.

He is Walter Cochran, who hails from Iowa, and is now residing in a world heater in Chicago under the instruction of L. W. Perkins.

Professor Perkins is the man who coached Calvin Demarest, and any number of high class billiardists, and he declares that not only is young Cochran the most promising pupil he ever had, but that the boy will be greater than the late "Wizard" Shaeffer.

If you understood billiard language consider this latest feat of the boy wonder. He averaged 35.4 in a Class A 18.2 ball game tournament, to the amazement of Chicago experts. He continues to amaze those same experts by the skill he shows in his daily practice.

The lad was "discovered" by his father, who is a hotelkeeper in Manson, Ia. Two years ago he observed the marvelous skill of his twelve-year-old son, and, disapproving with the celebrated Herbert Spencer, who declared great skill at billiards to be "evidence of a mispent life," he brought Walter to Chicago and turned him over to Professor Perkins. Cochran senior considers a bachelor of billiards degree just as good as a college degree, and Cochran junior agrees with him.

The boy is modest about it, though. When asked to talk about himself, his experience and ambition, he answered:

The Outdoor Diary

Two women who have acquired the winter tramping habit keep diaries of the great outdoors. Each writes in her book an account of the long walks they take together, and they derive much pleasure from looking over past entries and also from exchanging their books and noting how differently the same things have impressed them.

Sometimes one account of a walk is full of funny happenings on the way, while the other glazes with dry hints and nature's winter path. Their books are of the loose leaf sort, so that they are always complete and yet always ready for another chapter.

Occasionally the girls paste in the midst of a story of a hike, a striking picture taken with their pocket camera or the bill of fare of a quaint tea house where they have stopped for a meal.

All their friends are eager to see the latest pages when they call, and some of them are starting a diary of the great outdoors for themselves. It is a fine idea, for it takes the girls out of their overheated homes into the fresh air, whether for a stroll or a cross country tramp with a party.

Steamer Bitten by Pigeon

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—A carrier pigeon, one of 20 who live aboard the tramp steamer Manx Isles, reared the freighter all the way from Progress, Mexico, to Boston, arriving here ahead of the steamer, although the vessel got started on her way first.

The sailors on the steamer cannot understand how the pigeon got to Boston ahead of them. When the Manx Isles left Mexico, over a week ago, it was noted that one of the 20 pigeons had not returned to the vessel. No one on the vessel expected to see the bird again, but soon after the freighter docked here yesterday the missing bird flew aboard and into the pigeon coop.

EDISON TO RECEIVE THE MEDAL FOR BEST DEVICE FOR SAFEGUARDING LIVES

EDISON and the RATHENAU MEDAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The American Museum of Safety at its annual meeting Jan. 25 will present the Rathenau medal to Thomas A. Edison. The medal was first presented to Dr. Emil Rathenau of Germany in 1908 on his seventieth birthday. Hereafter one medal is to be struck from the original die each year for the American Museum of Safety to award to the person who has perfected the best device for safeguarding life and health in the electrical industry. Mr. Edison gets the medal because the use of his storage battery in mines, tunnels, buildings where explosives are made or stored or where explosive gases are generated has materially reduced the hazard of workers.

CAR LINE THROUGH AIKEN STREET

Residents of West Centralville Will Again Present Petition To That Effect

The number of houses in West Centralville is rapidly increasing, and one who has not seen that part of the city for 15 years, would be astonished to see the great development that has taken place in that district. The Hill-dene estate which a few years ago was nothing but a large strip of vacant land, is now nearly all occupied with fine modern dwellings.

Another tract of land which has been built upon recently is that formerly owned by the Merrick Mfg. Co. in West Sixth street, on which some thirty-five cottages and two apartment houses were erected by Jacques Polysart. Fermand road is also getting its share of tenement houses, and soon Mr. Calixte Lequin is to start the construction of a two-apartment house in that direction, having yesterday purchased a large piece of land.

There are all the accommodations wanted in the district with the exception of electric car service across the Aiken street bridge, and a movement is now on foot to petition the Bay State Street Railway company for such service. A couple of years ago a petition of that sort was presented to the said company and after considerable work, those in charge of the movement succeeded in having a car line established on Lilley avenue and Aiken street as far as Hovey square, but the question of going across the bridge was dropped with the understanding that the company would take care of that problem the following year, but the residents of that part of the city are still waiting for such service. The cars to Hovey square run every half hour by way of Lakeview avenue, but if the line was put through Aiken street it would mean a lot for those employed in the Lawrence, Hovey, Tremont & Suffolk mills as well as the Merrimack mill and Lowell Machine shop, and in fact in all the stores in upper Merrimack street, and the company would greatly benefit by it.

Another petition will soon be circulated among the residents of West Centralville and it is hoped by then that their efforts this time will not be fruitless, and that the street car company will grant the request.

MAY HAVE SET CHURCH FIRE

Police Watching Maniac Who is Suspected of Setting Fire to St. Jean Baptiste Church

Suspecting that he may know something or be responsible for the fire which destroyed the $250,000 St. Jean Baptiste church at Lowell several weeks ago, the Lowell and Lawrence police are investigating the movements of Charles W. Marshall, formerly of Haverhill, who escaped from the Danvers insane asylum last November and who was captured in Lawrence Monday afternoon.

Marshall, who was committed to the insane asylum from Haverhill about 10 years ago, is regarded as an incurable maniac and his escape from the institution caused considerable concern to the officials of the institution who had been prosecuting a diligent search for him.

Found on the River Bank

He was found on the river bank in Lawrence Monday by police inspectors who had been summoned to the place by telephone. When they arrived he at first gave the name of Frank Pearl, but finally admitted that his name is Charles W. Marshall and that he escaped from the asylum after being committed to it from Haverhill.

Asked what he was doing on the river bank Marshall told the inspectors that he had been under a bridge trying to find a $500 diamond which he had dropped into the water. He also declared, after much questioning, that before he was sent to Danvers he was arrested charged with setting fire to buildings in West Newbury.

HOLDS UP OFFICE AT GUN POINT

Desperado Captured After Daylight Attempt to Rob B. & A. Office

William J. Clayton, a bold bandit, was captured in Boston yesterday afternoon in an attempt to rob the Boston and Albany office at 284 Washington street. In his diary turned over to the police was found an account of six similar robberies in which he escaped arrest and secured $1668.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—William J. Clayton, a six-foot western desperado, took busy Washington street at a time when it was thronged with people yesterday afternoon to enact the most daring attempt at holdup of a dozen men and women and robbing a big railroad office that Boston has ever had recorded in its annals of crime.

Entering the street floor office of the Boston & Albany railroad at 284 Washington street, the desperado, after buying a ticket to Pittsfield, suddenly turned on the entire office force with gun in hand, ordering everyone to retreat to the back of the store, as he was after the money in the cashier's cage.

At a time when it seemed that the daring invader would be successful in his undertaking, a visitor, George A. Titcomb, city passenger agent of the Canadian Pacific road, slipped through a back door to give the alarm, which resulted in Clayton taking to his heels, followed by the office force.

Hundreds in Chase

After a sensational chase through the busiest part of Boston, with hundreds of citizens in pursuit, he was cornered in the barber shop of Joseph Albanian in Summer street, near the corner of Hawley.

A diary found in the pocket of the desperado at police headquarters shows entries of holdups at railroad offices in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Buffalo, New York and Pittsburgh, and Clayton last night confessed to being the man who has been terrorizing the railroad concerns during the past two weeks.

From every indication, it would appear that Clayton, after robbing a Philadelphia railroad office last Monday, came direct to Boston to operate.

It was shortly after 4.30 that the man entered the Boston & Albany office in the Old South building. Joseph Fitzgerald, the head clerk, waited on him at the counter while clerks were all about.

"I want a ticket to Pittsfield," said Clayton, leaning heavily on the counter and gazing toward the back of the office. Placing the ticket in his pocket he turned for the door as if to go out and reaching it he suddenly turned and came hurriedly back to the desk.

Fitzgerald, thinking he wanted to ask another question leaned forward to hear and he found himself looking into the bore of a revolver.

"You get back and—quick—to the back of the office," he whispered. "And you, too—all of you," he shouted to the other clerks who were near the front counter.

Fitzgerald and the rest made for the back office, leaving George A. Hacker, assistant cashier, in the cashier's cage.

"Now you get out of the cage and quick," commanded the desperado calmly, and in the face of an ugly revolver Hacker complied quickly.

It was all done in a flash and the clerks in the back of the office, including Manager C. E. Colony and Miss Frances Perley, the stenographer, in whippers, sought to devise a way to get out of the back door and give the alarm.

The robber heard the talk and leaving the counter for a moment rushed toward the back of the store and silenced them. James P. Flynn, one of the clerks, in the act of taking the receiver off the phone, was commanded to drop it quick.

Back to the counter ran Clayton, not noticing that he had left behind him close to the wall, just outside the rail, George Titcomb.

The cage empty, Clayton vaulted upon the counter just as Titcomb rushed for the back door. As it closed with a bang he uttered a curse, shouting, "It's queer me," and leaping from the counter made for the door.

Just previous to his jumping from the counter, Manager Colony and Miss Perley determined to get through the back door, and made a rush, in spite of the gun pointed their way.

Hardly had the front door slammed on Clayton than Fitzgerald and Hacker were after him.

Hackers and countless they rushed on to Washington street, and seeing their man in the distance sprinting as if for life, they dashed after him. They shouted as they ran, and by the time Clayton reached the corner of Washington and Franklin streets nearly a hundred people were in pursuit.

Fifty yards ahead was Clayton and as he neared Hawley street, he paused as if to draw his gun and the crowd halted an instant. Turning, with a fresh burst of speed, Clayton dashed up Hawley street. Well in the lead of the throng, Fitzgerald and Hacker were gaining on the desperado with every stride and, as the hunted man neared Summer street and turned toward the South station, he seemed to realize this, for suddenly he left the sidewalk and plunged through the doorway of Joseph Albanian's barber shop, where he sank into a chair.

In company with Officer Jacobus of Station 2, who had joined them, Hacker saw the man disappear through the doorway. The officer entered the shop and Clayton surrendered without a struggle.

Held in $5000

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—After lodging a formal charge of attempted robbery against William Monague, alias Clayton, who made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to hold up an uptown railroad ticket office at the point of a revolver the local authorities continued today their investigation of his record, which they declare is particularly interesting from a criminal viewpoint.

Monague was held for the grand jury in $5000 bonds and he was handed back to the police for further examination.

DISTRICT BOOMING

THERE IS A GREAT ERA OF PROSPERITY IN THE OAKLANDS

Citizens Banded Together to Secure a Park and Other Public Improvements Considered Necessary

It is when the residents of a city themselves take an active interest in beautifying and improving the various localities that the best and most encouraging work is accomplished along this line. Lowell rejoices in the possession of an organization known as the Oakland Improvement association, which has grown out of the most progressive ideas as to the manner of effecting attractiveness and growth in a district. Much of the beauty and striking advance of the locality known as the Oakland is due to the energetic efforts of the members of this association.

The Oakland Improvement association is now entering upon its fifth year of active existence and the members are filled with a determination to excel even the brilliant past. At a recent meeting, the election of officers was held and resulted as follows: President, Judge Frederick A. Fisher; Vice-president, Charles H. Holston; Secretary, John McKenna; Treasurer, William C. Cogger. A board of directors was also chosen to take charge of the active work of the organization in regard to improvements and additions.

Among the many things which this association has accomplished recently was the construction of a path known as the Oakland Path, now complete. The new street would be a great benefit to the locality and moreover they were energetic enough to make the plan a reality.

Another matter which is at present occupying the minds of the residents of the Oakland is the completion of the macadamizing of Wentworth avenue, a project which was started some time ago but not finished. This avenue is one of the most beautiful in the district and the finishing of this work upon the road will be of great advantage to the property owners.

Since the Improvement association began its crusade for the betterment of the locality, there has accordingly been effected a decided increase in the value of the property there. The residents and property owners saw where they could cause many improvements by working in a uniform manner and the association above mentioned was the result. It is by no means originated for a mercenary aim but rather for the general good of all, for it also brings the people together in social events and by increasing friendship, making the people more neighborly, forming pleasant associations that make life in that vicinity more enjoyable.

Along with their other improvements, the members of this society have done a great deal in the extermination of such pests as the gypsy moth, brown-tail moth and mosquitoes during the past two years. Men in the employ of the organization have been at work on the trees there and through their efforts the moth pest is fast becoming a thing of the past in that locality. During the past two summers, a man was hired by the members to go about and pour a specially prepared composition of kerosene and raw petroleum upon the pools and other bodies of stagnant water in that district to accomplish the extermination of the mosquito. A resident of the Oakland said today that as a result of the man's labor, they were not bothered by mosquitoes in that district. Certainly this was well worth the slight trouble and expense which it entailed.

With the coming of spring many plans which are now being discussed by the members of the society which has been doing so much good in the Oakland will be put into practice. It is quite certain that the macadamizing of Wentworth avenue will be the first project which will be taken up and finished as soon as the season arrives. It is to a great extent due to the activity of the society that the district is becoming so popular among people who are seeking locations for new homes and the vacant property is fast becoming occupied by these. At present there is an abundance of vacant lots suitable for building houses in the locality, particularly on Andover street, and it is evident that sooner or later there is bound to be a great demand for these, if things continue as they are. The members of the association for the improvement of the Oakland have succeeded in getting a clause into the deeds of land purchased there which will call for the building of good houses on the property, buildings of at least two stories and a half in height and of good appearance. Of late there have been many new structures erected there, and at the present time many are having beautiful homes built on Wentworth avenue, Holyrood avenue, Parkview avenue, Butman road, and other places in the Oakland.

Recently the directors of the Oakland Improvement association sent a proposition to Mr. Keyser, a Baltimore man and the heir to the land located in the valley between Fairmount hill and Wentworth avenue, to have a part of it deeded to the city with the understanding that the latter will construct there a sort of park and playground for the children. Mr. Keyser has not yet been heard from, but the manager of the estate is in favor of the proposition for he sees where it would increase the value of the lots on both sides.

There are only a few of the steps taken by the Oakland Improvement association in the work of effecting the advance and greater attractiveness of one of Lowell's most beautiful districts. The association is composed of old residents of the locality and energetic and interested residents who are quick to see the advantages of a place and who

Built Up By Hood's Sarsaparilla

In many cases of general debility Hood's Sarsaparilla has shown its great intrinsic medicinal worth, as in the case of Mrs. L. U. Bickford, Gossville, N. H., who writes: "Whenever I have suffered, as in the spring, from a general run-down condition of the system—prostration, dyspepsia, weakness, that tired feeling—I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it has effected a complete restoration to health."

FARMERS INSTITUTE MEETING

Professor McDonald of Amherst the Principal Speaker—Other Speakers

The Middlesex North Agricultural society held its second in a series of farmers' institutes at the Congregational church in Braintree Centre today. The affair opened this forenoon with a good attendance. The first of these institutes was held in Tewksbury several weeks ago and proved a great success.

The principal lecturer of the occasion was Professor McDonald of Massachusetts Agricultural college in Amherst, Mass., and he spoke very interestingly on topics of importance to the farmer. His words were exceedingly instructive and beneficial to the tiller of the soil, and he offered many suggestions for improvements. A great portion of his speech was devoted to the care of apple and other fruit trees. There were also several other prominent agriculturists as speakers at the institute today.

At noon a bounteous dinner was served by the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church of Braintree Centre and it proved a most enjoyable event for the guests. More than 200 were present at this dinner. After the dinner the orchestra of Lowell furnished excellent music for the occasion. Among the after dinner speakers were Daniel Cosgrove, Rev. Mr. Bartlett, Mr. Corkum of Billerica and Frank Stearns of Lowell.

These institutes are proving very popular among the members of the society and the farmers throughout the county. Two which have been held thus far under the auspices of the Middlesex North Agricultural society have been remarkably successful from every aspect. That they offer great inducement to the farmer for advance and for better knowledge of raising and packing fruits and vegetables is a well known fact and both of the affairs of the society have been largely attended. Howard W. Foster is chairman of the committee on institutes and it was in great measure due to his efforts that it was such a success.

WANT SEPARATE SLEEPING ROOMS

Members of Seven Fire Stations Petition Ald. Cummings for Individual Apartments

The members of seven local fire stations have sent a petition to Commissioner Cummings, requesting that their respective houses be equipped with individual sleeping rooms. Mr. Cummings will submit the proposition to the members of the municipal council tomorrow.

The occupants of the local fire stations who are not supplied with individual sleeping rooms have petitioned the commissioner of public buildings and licenses for the same, and the matter will be brought to the council's attention at tomorrow's meeting.

The stations not equipped with individual sleeping rooms are the following: Gorham street, Branch street, Palmer street, High street, Mammoth road, Lawrence street and Westford street. The members of Engine 5 in Mammoth road, however, are willing to let the matter go to next year. Commissioner Cummings said this morning he would bring the proposition before the municipal council and let the latter take the course desired.

Steel Vault

Supt. Frank Connor of the public building department has draughted plans for the record vaults to be erected at the police station in Market street in compliance with the state's wishes, and the estimate cost of the work is $12,800. The vaults will be of steel with two-inch walls of brick and asbestos, and will be absolutely fireproof, and will be built by the department.

The council at its meeting tomorrow will decide what will be done in reference to the vaults.

Contract For Wagon Shed

The contract for the construction of the wagon shed, an addition to the city stable in Broadway, has not as yet been awarded, although Mathias Connors was the lowest bidder, and the reason for this is that the engineer department is making an investigation of the claims of J. Whitney heirs, who through their counsel claim that the city will take up some of their land in the rear of the stable. As soon as the engineer department has its finding ready, the same by advice of the city solicitor, will be sent to the claimants and the contract for the construction of the wagon shed will be awarded and work will be started at once.

Scarlet Fever

The number of scarlet fever cases is gradually decreasing. Today only one case was reported at the board of health office.

Sewer Work

As voted by the municipal council at the last meeting the men are repairing the sewer in Paige street for the comfort station. The work is being done prior to the water laying his concrete floor. It has been decided to lay iron pipes in order to prevent any possibility of water leaking into the underground comfort station.

Election Reports

Harvey B. Greene, who was defeated for commissioner last (the recent) election, has filed his report with the city clerk. He expended $150.75.

CASH REGISTER RIFLED

Liquor Saloon Entered Had Last Word on the Home Rule Debate and $40 Stolen

The liquor saloon of James J. Kennedy & Co., at 214 Broadway, was entered some time between 11 o'clock last night and 6 o'clock this morning and $40 in money and several bottles of liquor were stolen. The matter has been reported to the police but up to the time of going to press the police had found no clue as to the culprits.

An entrance was gained with the assistance of a key, the front door being entered. The two cash registers were rifled and then the thieves made a selection of bottled goods from the shelves and later departed, leaving the door unlocked.

Stock Sent Sold for $51,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—A seat on the New York stock exchange was today sold for $51,000, the lowest price recorded since 1905. Last week a seat brought $53,000. The low price reflects the stagnant condition of affairs in the stock market.

Rockefeller personally or from the Rockefeller educational foundation it will forfeit a bequest of $75,000 left the university extension work, according to the will of the late Thomas W. Phillips of Newcastle, Pa., which was filed here for probate yesterday. The decision owned property in Los Angeles county. HARMONY HALL EVENT THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

Varied Program Given Kept Open House at
by Lowell Talent Y. M. C. A.

A large and appreciative audience turned out last evening to enjoy a pleasing entertainment at Harmony hall, Collinsville. The program consisted of light dramatics, singing, wrestling and boxing exhibitions. Readings by Mr. James Coughlin and Mr. Thomas Bean were enthusiastically received, while the musical bits of Messrs. John Gleason, John Dalton and Edward Shea were equally good. Calvary and Cunningham, the two wrestling instructors of the Y. M. C. A. gave demonstrations of the different holds and locks used by modern champions. Martin Flaherty and Freddie Maguire, old ring masters, with Jimmy Martin and William Howe, furnished illustrations of how the different blows should be stepped, ducked or parried. Malt McCann, the well known athletic critic, staged the affair and received many congratulations on its success. The proceeds will be devoted to enlargement of the library of the Brownson literary society.

INCREASE TAX ON AUTOS

Touring Dist. of Columbia is Expensive

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—War to the last drop of gasoline was declared by the District of Columbia today against Maryland automobilists in retaliation for alleged treatment offered automobile tourists from the capital. The first move of the district government was to increase the auto tax on all outside cars entering the district. Until yesterday the tax here was $2 and the license was perpetual; today Maryland's taxation schedule is adopted and Maryland cars will be forced to pay a graduated scale according to the size of the automobile ranging from $3 to $35 a year with additional charges for drivers. Virginia makes no charge for district owned cars passing in or out of her territory and the same courtesy is extended by the District of Columbia automobiles. Maryland auto enthusiasts who venture into the capital, however, will be arrested and fined heavily if they are not supplied with the necessary license tags. Government officials and members of the diplomatic corps have been arrested on many occasions by officials of Maryland towns and it is said that because of the alleged injustice of the arrests the retaliatory war was declared.

LITHUANIAN CHURCH

Remodeled and Ready For Services
Next Sunday—Edward Toubey Was the Contractor
St. Joseph's Lithuanian church, at the corner of Rogers and Congress streets, which was gutted by fire two months ago, has been remodeled and the first services in the building since the fire will be held next Sunday. Masses will be celebrated at 8 and 10:30 o'clock in the morning and vespers at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.
Fr. Olechnowicz, new pastor of the church, wishes to thank the pastor of the Immaculate Conception church and the pastor of the Holy Trinity church for their kindness in offering the use of their churches for the holding of services during the past two months. Contractor Edward Toubey did the work and the roof is much better than before.

I WILL STAKE THIS MEDICINE AGAINST YOUR TIME

A Few Days Will Be Sufficient to Prove That You Are Curable

A few minutes of your time for a few days and I will demonstrate to you, without expense to yourself, that I have a medicine that drives Uric Acid poison from the system and by so doing cures kidney trouble, bladder trouble and rheumatism. I don't ask you to take my word for it, but simply want you to let me send you some of this medicine so that you can use it personally.

I am trying to convince sufferers from these diseases that I have something far better than the usual run of remedies, treatments and such things, and the only way I can demonstrate that fact is to go to the expense of sending you a sample of my medicine free of charge. This I am glad to do for any sufferer who will take the time to write me. Understand, I will not send you a so-called "sample" proof or test treatment," nor will I send you a package of medicine and say that you can use some of it and pay for the rest, but I will send you a supply free of charge and you will not be asked to pay for this gift nor will you be under any obligations.

All I want to know is that you have a disease for which my medicine is indicated as to its nature, and I will give herewith some of the leading symptoms of kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles. If you notice one or more of these symptoms you need this medicine, and I will be glad to send you some of it if you will write me the numbers of the symptoms you have. Write to me at my address and I will send you a letter of diagnosis and medical advice that should be of great help to you; but in order to do this I must know that you need my medicine. Write me the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your age, and I will promptly carry out my promise. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

These Are the Symptoms:
1—Pain in the back.
2—Too frequent desire to urinate.
3—Burning or obstruction of urine.
4—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
5—Frequent urination.
6—Gas or pain in the stomach.
7—General debility, weakness, dizziness.
8—Pain or soreness under right rib.
9—Swelling in any part of the body.
10—Swelling of liver or spleen.
11—Pain or soreness in the back of the heart.
12—Pain in the neck or head.
13—Pain or tenderness in the kidneys.
14—Pain or soreness in the joints.
15—Pain or soreness in the muscles.
16—Pain and soreness in the nerves.
17—Acute or chronic rheumatism.

DR. T. FRANK LYNOTT who will send medicine to anyone free of charge few days to demonstrate to their own satisfaction that they are cured. Especially when you consider no expense is involved, and I willingly give you my time and my medicine. All any fair-minded medical person wants to know is if a certain thing will cure him or her, and here is an opportunity to find out without cost, obligation or importunate loss of time. THESE FEW DAYS may be the turning point in your life. All who are interested enough to write me for the free medicine will also receive a copy of my large illustrated medical book which describes these diseases thoroughly. It is the largest book of the kind ever written for free distribution, and a new edition is just being printed. I will also write you a letter of diagnosis and medical advice that should be of great help to you; but in order to do this I must know that you need my medicine. Write me the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your age, and I will promptly carry out my promise. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

The Playhouse
The fact that "The Playhouse" which is being given by the Drama Players at The Playhouse, was given 50 presentations in one season here by Kendall Weston and his company several years ago, is a sufficient guarantee to the lovers of the best that the stock stage has to offer that the place is indeed worthy of liberal patronage. If you have not seen the place, don't fail to make the most of the few remaining opportunities. See Mr. Smythe and Miss Jackson and the other members of the company in their best roles. Tickets on sale at the theatre and at Dows', telephone 640.

Merrimack Square Theatre
"The Little Girl," a thirty minute playlet given by Horace Carlton Co. at the Merrimack Square theatre this week, is one of the most artistic, as well as interesting, plays given on a local stage in some time. The members of the cast, four in number, are unusually capable and the stage settings are such that all greatly to the enjoyment of the piece. A comedy offering by Knight Bros. & Sawdell is amusing, while Hamlin and Barrows are excellent in their ability. Harry and Anna LaDell are expert gymnasts, while the motion picture plays are the kind that appeal to the young, and the old. The Merrimack Square theatre are of added interest this week.

H. F. Keith's Theatre
Martinet & Sylvester, the boys with the chairs, who are at the Keith theatre, this week, offer one of the best things of its kind in any stage. The falls of Martinet are wonderfully well done, while the ground tumbling of Sylvester is little short of marvellous. Arthur Kirby, monologist and blackface comedian, is another sure fire. Mr. Leish Delacy in "The Boss" has a pretty playlet, which will make a sure appeal to the heart of any auditor, and Holmes & Hudson, a comedy conception, wind up their act with the strong scene in the light-house from "Shore Acres." Other things on the bill are contributed by the Rosales, wire performers; Johnson & Wentworth, singers; Deliste, the juggler, and Mitchell & Lightner, Good seats may be secured by telephoning 28.

The Kasino
When one considers the incentives offered, it is not at all strange that the Kasino is so permanent as to be in their size and their quality. At the time the Kasino was built, the owners determined to keep the standards just as nearly perfect as possible, and from that determination they have never deviated.

Theatre Voyons
A western story, "The Eldorado Lode," will be the feature of the Theatre Voyons today. It abounds in human interest, strong in dramatic action, and the staging is absolutely true to life. Fathe's Weekly presents a number of world wide events of great importance and a clever comedy of boy life, "Jimmy," will interest every one.

Rate Trent Tonight
The free lecture in the People's club course tonight will highly entertain all who have interest in American history. The views to be displayed picture some of the historic landmarks of the nation and the description given by Mrs. Charles T. Canton will increase their value. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock. There is no charge for admission and all—men and women—are invited. The hall is in the Runch building, Merrimack and Bridge streets and the elevator will make access easy.

Captain Rodman will proceed to the canal zone some time in the near future to advise Col. It has not been determined whether the tug flotillas will be commanded by naval officers but this is one of the subjects for discussion.

SEND APPEAL FOR HELP TWO FIREMEN OVERCOME FOUND BODY IN TRUNK

Fam lies in Flood District In $200,000 Fire at Woman Had Been Miss- Request Aid Battle Creek ing Since Tuesday

CINCINNATI, Jan. 16.—The Ohio river today passed the highest stage reached for several years and was expected to go several tenths higher before the crest of the flood passed. Many families have been driven to the second stories of their homes by the rising tide. Small towns in the trade district of the country are sending appeals for help as the food supplies are being exhausted. Many of these places have been cut off for a week because the high water has made it impossible to reach the submerged landings. Interurban trolley car service practically has been abandoned in the flood district.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 16.—Fire which started early today in the Eldred block, a three story structure in the center of the business district spread to several adjoining buildings and caused a loss estimated at $200,000. Two firemen were overcome by smoke and taken to the hospital. They are expected to recover.

Good time, Falcons, Asso., tonight.

CHELMSFORD

The postoffice plaza on Central square is being improved by Postmaster Ralph W. Emerson and Guy Fitch. Mr. James Byam is having his entire orchard on Westford street trimmed. The work is being done by Mr. Samuel Fitch.

Miss Gertrude Rideout, the temporary ninth grade and high school teacher from Concord Junction, has introduced to the pupils of the high grade a circulating library, the books being furnished by herself and the scholars.

The elder and vineyard establishment owned by Mr. Walter Perham of Westford street is doing a thriving business, having made over 200,000 gallons of cider this year. He also has 75,000 gallons of vinegar.

Mrs. Ernest T. Manson of Holliston, Mass., formerly and much better known as Miss Ida Gardner, the former high school teacher, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleming of North street, also visiting all the grades in the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols of North street have had their future brightened by the birth of a little baby daughter.

All the grades at the Centre school had their pictures taken yesterday by Mr. Dodge, photographer, in two poses, one in a serious and one in a laughing mood.

The first basketball games of the season were played last evening at the Town hall. A very large number of people was present. Chelmsford's two teams did some very fancy work with the Company K and Textile Chemists. Chelmsford first and Company K were first on the floor and the K's were defeated in the first half by the score of 19 to 7. The end of the second half gave the score as 30 to 20 in favor of Chelmsford.

The Textile and Chelmsford seconds was the most exciting and interesting game, the score being tied several times in the second half. The score in Chelmsford's favor was 24 to 22 at the end of the game. The lineup and summary:

BALKAN ALLIES FIRM

War Will Reopen Unless Turkey Yields

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Balkan kingdoms have not weakened in their determination to reopen the war unless Turkey accepts their terms quickly. In deference to the powers they may withhold the execution of their resolve a few days longer than seemed likely yesterday.

They wish the world to know that their policy is unchanged. As allies they inaugurated the doctrine of "the Balkans for the Balkan peoples" at a time when it appeared almost preposterous folly to the great nations of Europe and they declare now that they propose to maintain the right which their united armies won to be considered a great independent nation, and manage their own diplomacy according to their own views of what their national interests demand.

Deverted on Wedding Day

CLINTON, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Lillian May Furlong of Clinton was granted a divorce decree from Harold A. Furlong by Judge John B. Justice in the jury waived sessions of the superior court yesterday, following interesting testimony of her married life of three hours.

Married at 8 o'clock and deserted before 11 the same evening, was the story told by Mrs. Furlong to Judge Italgan when her divorce libel was read. Mr. and Mrs. Furlong went from the church to the home of relatives and after a few hours' visit with the family, Furlong disappeared, never to return.

Judge Italgan called attention to the short length of time that the couple were living as husband and wife, but granted the divorce decree on strength of authorities presented by counsel for Mrs. Furlong. The case has been in the superior court dockets for several months.

BATTLES HOME

Corporation Met and Elected New Officers for Enslaving Year—Contributions are Necessary

The members of the Battles Home corporation for aged men held its annual meeting recently and elected the following officers: A. D. Carter, president; Wm. T. Sheppard, treasurer; Walter H. Howe, secretary. The following were elected directors: A. D. Carter, Anna Pratt, C. W. Whitford, H. Kirk White, Rev. Charles T. Billings, Rev. Appleton Granville, Wm. T. Sheppard, Miss N. P. H. Robbins and Walter H. Howe.

As the resources of this institution are becoming more and more limited they find it necessary to seek contributions to establish a sufficient fund for the work. The home was founded in 1901 by residents of Boston and Lowell and many friends of the founders have since passed away. The institution, however, has been successful and has accomplished a great deal of good. This is the first occasion on which the corporation has been forced to resort to outside contributions.

MYSTERY IS CLEARED
Lynn Quartet Charged
With Many Burglaries

LYNN, Jan. 16.—In the arrest of two young men and two young women last night the police believe they have cleared up the mystery of the numerous burglaries of summer homes in Swampscott, Clifton and Marblehead during the fall and winter. William Hayes of Lynn and J. O. Porter of Marblehead were arrested in the summer residence of Herbert Gale on Atlantic avenue, Swampscott. They had locked themselves in a bathroom and had with them two suit cases filled with articles picked up in the house.

Some time later the girls, Estelle Langdon, 17 years old, of Salem, and Ida Lalpini, 19, of Peabody, called at the police station to see the prisoners. The arrest of the young women followed after some questioning the girls led officers to a building-house on Washington street where they occupied a room, and disclosed a great quantity of articles later identified as the show men's and he was arrested as having been stolen from the summer home of Samuel Shuman of Boston, at Clifton. From a room in a local hotel which Porter had occupied the police recovered property stolen from the summer home of J. H. Buckminster of Boston at Marblehead.

A police ambulance was nearly filled with the recovered articles which included opera cloaks, fancy dresses, jewelry, silverware and clocks, the whole being estimated to be worth fully $2000.

The police say the girls admitted having been at the Shuman and Buckminster houses last Monday night with Porter and another man whose name is not known and who has not yet been arrested. The four will be given a hearing today.

$150,000 LOSS BY FIRE
Block in Millinocket, Me., Destroyed

MILLINOCKET, Me., Jan. 16.—Fire which started in the establishment of F. H. Banks, plumber and painter, last night destroyed the Mackessery block, a three-story building in the heart of the business section of this town and the loss is estimated at $150,000. The fire was discovered at 8.30 and had gained such headway that 10 hydrant streams failed to check it. As soon as it was realized that the block was doomed the firemen turned their attention to saving surrounding property which appeared to be out of danger at a late hour. On the first floor of the block in addition to the Banks' store were those of Daniel Hjel and John Riley, a tailor, and the second floor was occupied by the offices of Dr. J. S. Stevens and Fred E. Doyle, an attorney, together with Doyle's home. The Masonic hall, one of the best in this part of the state, was on the third floor. Some of the occupants saved their belongings.

WALKER DESERTS G. O. P.

Now Bull Moose--Weeks' Election Did It

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Ex-Speaker Joseph Walker, the republican candidate for governor in the last campaign, has left the republican party, of which he has been a lifelong member, and has joined the progressives.

In a statement given out last night, he declared that in the election of John W. Weeks to the United States senate the republican party showed that it is dominated by reactionary forces.

Walker's Statement

The statement follows: "The election of John W. Weeks to the United States senate was a blow, but one meaning, namely, that the republican party in Massachusetts is to be permanently dominated by the old reactionary leadership, with which I have no sympathy and in which I do not believe.

"There seems to me now no hope of a reorganization of the republican party in which progressive principles or progressive leadership will be recognized.

"If the legislature can be dominated by private and special interests in the selection of a United States senator, it can be dominated by the same interests in matters of legislation. The same methods which have been used by these interests, acting through a political machine, to elect their representatives to the senate, may be used to affect legislation in which they are interested.

"In spite of myself, I am at last convinced that there is but one effective remedy, namely, to revise our political machinery, so that the people may not only nominate and elect all representatives directly but also may legislate directly whenever their interests demand such action.

"I, therefore, will hereafter co-operate with those who are trying to devise a practical and satisfactory method of initiative and referendum. I am convinced that this is necessary in order to free the people from the dominance of the private and special interests which have so clearly proved their power to control the legislature.

"In Massachusetts we have arrived at the parting of the ways. The republican party, under the dominance of the old leadership, has definitely rejected all progress. As a progressive, I feel that there is no longer any place for me in the republican party.

"I, therefore, with deep feelings of regret, renounce my allegiance to the republican party of which I have been an active member all my life. And I join the progressive party, with which I am in real sympathy, and the success of which, I believe, will make for social welfare.

"Now is the time for all progressives in Massachusetts to leave the republican party and build up the new liberal party already established under the name 'progressive.' While a fundamental principle of this new party will always be absolute independence of private and special interests and a complete refusal to be controlled by any special lobby for the protection of all legitimate business interests.

"I urge all liberal republicans earnestly to consider this proposition and take such action as will end forever the dominance in politics of those who have some interest to serve other than the public interest."

KING ADAMS IS DEAD

Ruler of Swan Island Died in Boston

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—King Adams is dead. Aloisio Adams, the monarch of Swan Island in the Caribbean Sea, died at the Massachusetts General hospital of cardiac trouble yesterday, after an illness of five days. His body was taken charge of by relatives in East Hampton, Conn., for burial.

King Adams, of whom much has been written, was a picturesque character, whose occasional visits to Boston were chronicled by the press.

King of Swan Island

Years ago as a shrewd Yankee skipper, Captain Adams discovered that Swan Island, off the coast of Honduras, in the Gulf of Mexico, was unclaimed by any power and that it was fertile and worth while. He squatted upon it. He did more—he became king of it. His family followed him to the island.

The native blacks multiplied and took kindly to their new king's rule. Coconuts and fruits were raised and shipped. His little fishing vessel was used thereafter to transport the island's produce to the mainland. Sometimes a trip was taken to Boston or New York.

These were veritable outings for the captain, though he was always figured in the tales. The island was divided by a rocky channel. As a whole the territory is 40 miles in circumference and five miles across.

Build a Lighthouse

On the more dangerous shore of the island, King Adams caused to be erected, after some years of prosperity and home comforts, a lighthouse, to warn vessels of the perilous reefs, and also for signalling purposes. All skippers in these seas knew Captain Adams personally, and would stop on signal. The king's home was on a little eminence overlooking the harbor.

Adams was the king, secretary, treasurer, boss farmer, board of trade and press agent, and there is every reason to believe he fulfilled every trust with credit and profit to all concerned.

He knew his own power. He was a man of the island, and he was a man of the world.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 16.—A curious thing occurred at the Wilmington police station yesterday when A. L. White, a farmer near Silver Brook, a suburb, went the station house to identify chickens that had been stolen from him by Frank Johnson, a negro, a hen actually ran to him and began vigorously pecking at his trousers.

"Why, there is old Jenny," exclaimed the farmer. "She knows me. She has been a pet of my family for over a year."

All the while the chicken rubbed against White pretty much as a cat would do. Then, as though she had graduated, she went into a cell and laid an egg. Afterwards she clucked loudly.

This upset the negro's denials of guilt and his claims that he owned the chicken. He was held for trial.

FOUR BOUTS SCHEDULED

For Tomorrow Night's Meeting of Local Club

Battling Gunboat Eldridge, who is matched to meet Joe Thomas, the clever Californian lightweight before the members of the Lowell A. C. tomorrow night arrived in Boston Tuesday. Yesterday Eldridge took to the road and in the afternoon he did enough rough training and boxing to satisfy the most satiated followers that he will be fit and prime for a rough encounter with the Adonis of the ring sport, Joe Thomas. Eldridge has solicited the services of Billy Sylvester, a handler of boxers whose success in turning out winners is second to none in the country. Sylvester managed and trained Chicago Jim Barry for many of his most important battles and he is bending every effort to bring Eldridge too Lowell in the best of boxing form.

Eldridge and his party will travel to Lowell early Friday and will close up his training tonight. The Cape Cod boxer is lighter and faster than he ever was in his life having worked off in the time that he has been working down on the Cape upwards of some 10 pounds. He looks forward to giving the Thomas admirers the surprise of their lives and is confident that he will score a signal victory well before the 12 rounds have expired.

Thomas is in great condition and is confident of coming out the long end. The semi-final will be furnished by Henry Myers of Charlestown and Young Delmont of Lawrence. Young Conney and Kid George, will clash in one of the preliminaries, and a meeting of the directors held last night it was decided to put on one more six round number. This will be given by Kid Pastime and Young Carroll. The directors decided to have the four bouts and rush them through, quickly so that the out of town members may get cars after the meeting. The first bout will start promptly at 8.15.

Suit for $42,000 in Pew Tangle

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 16.—That their signatures were secured to a note for $42,000 by means of conspiracy entered into by the late William A. Pew, another member of his family and an agent of the comptroller of the United States treasury, is the defence which five directors of the liquidated City National bank will advance in contesting the payment of the note for which suit is being brought.

Members of the board of liquidating agents of the defunct bank, including General William A. Pew, commanding the First Brigade, M. V. M., and B. F. A.

hens of Salem, are bringing the suit. General Pew is a son of the late William A. Pew, cashier of the bank, and himself the president of the bank for the past 10 years.

Startling Conditions

The investigation of the suits has revealed startling conditions relative to the estate of the late William A. Pew and the condition of the City National bank which has stirred banking circles of the North Shore and Boston as seldom before.

It is openly stated and admitted by some stockholders of the bank that when the atmosphere is cleared the stocks of the dead bank, which in 1891 was quoted at $100 per share and during the succeeding 10 years jumped to $300 per share and sold at this price as late as 1903, will not be the holders' absolutely nothing.

The directors claim that mismanagement of the bank and unfortunate stock and bond investments are the causes of the downfall.

LOWELL Y. M. C. I. WON

The Lowell Y. M. C. I. defeated the Lawrence C. Y. M. A. by a margin of forty pins last night. I. was the feature of the game.

The Kittens and Draughtsmen of the Saco-Lowell league met on the Crescent alleys last night, and the former won by a score of three points to one. Harrall of the winning team was the high roller.

Teams made up of single and married men of North Billerica had it on the Crescent alleys last night, and the former team won by a good margin. Bostwick with a triple of 222 was high man.

AS EUROPE SEES US

The National Review, an English magazine that perpetually fears a war between Great Britain and Germany, publishes an article in its current number on "The United States and Anglo-German Rivalry," which is chiefly interesting as throwing some light upon the European point of view of our naval armament. The writer agrees that in the event of a conflict between the two nations, the United States would maintain strict neutrality, even if the British should meet with a crushing defeat, but he points out that should the latter event transpire, this country would awaken to find the Germans with a permanent naval base within striking distance of the Panama canal and South America. For this reason, he believes that we should build more battleships.

Already the United States has fallen from the second place which, for a decade it had occupied, and without greater exertion is likely to sink still further in the scale. The decision of congress to curtail the program of naval construction could not have been less auspiciously chosen in its moment. To desert from a normal development, and hardly more than to replace the worn out, when all the nations of the world, great and small, are aiming, is to court a disaster and to lay the country open to the consequences of such imprudence. The apostasy of any one-sided disarmament at a time like the present are blindly to expose their land to a disastrous war or a yet more disastrous humiliation.

This would be distressing were it true, but, as a matter of fact, there is no attempt to bring about a one-sided disarmament in the United States. It is true that congress does not authorize as many battleships and their auxiliaries as the navy department desires, and it is also true that we are losing our position as the second naval power in the world; but the first fact will probably be true more often than otherwise, while the second has no greater significance than the fact that Europe has been suffering from a war scare and has been building fleets out of all proportions to the necessity of the hour.

It is well to remember that when Grover Cleveland and Richard Olney threw down the gauntlet to England over the Venezuela incident, we did not have enough of a navy to carry on a war with a third rate power, and when we went to war with Spain our navy was only in its infancy. The danger of overbuilding at the present time is the risk of further changes in naval construction which may place many ships now in the first class into a secondary position. There is no remote menace of a war likely to involve the United States in the immediate future, and our naval program is sufficient to maintain our position as a world power, especially as the mobility of our squadrons will soon be increased by the opening of the passage through the Panama canal.

IMPROVING THE MERRIMACK

The rivers and harbors bill presented to congress this week includes an item of $10,000 for the Merrimack river. This would probably provide for little more than the survey for deepening and widening a channel to the sea, but it is a beginning, and the important thing now is to start the project. There have been numerous surveys from Lowell to the sea, and from lower points to the sea, and various recommendations. Some of them have been unfavorable and others have recommended the water route, but in no case has action been taken. More than a hundred years ago it was contemplated to make the Merrimack navigable to Lowell, and indeed the first canal constructed in the town had for its object the carrying of freight about the falls; and when the old Middlesex canal was built there was an effort made to establish a water route from Boston to Concord, N. H. Then came the development of the railroads, and the canal and the navigable river were believed to have been outlived forever. But today the country is spending millions on canals and millions on dredging rivers, and the time may yet come when our coal will be shipped from tidewater to our city. Certainly there is united action in the Merrimack valley to this end, and the state itself is now interested in the problem.

THE DISEASE OR THE REMEDY?

A cure has been discovered for pneumonia, but of such a nature that unless it receives a nickname few will be courageous enough to call for it. The remedy is known as ethylhydroxyphenylhydrochloride. Of course if you are a chemist of the most advanced type, you will recognize in this name merely the effort to include the chemicals that enter into it. The combination has been tried on the pneumococci with the best of results. The "pneumo" seems to have collapsed before the overwhelming argument of the "ethyl." The treatment is not a form of vaccine, such as is used in typhoid fever or diphtheria, but more like the salvarsan of Ehrlich. If this is not entirely clear to the lay mind, a call from your family physician may elucidate it. One needs only to add that if the disease is avoided the remedy may be likewise.

THE TURK AT BAY

If Turkey fails to come to time now, she must prepare herself for a crushing defeat. There are those who believe that her delay has been for the purpose of gaining time while she could reorganize her army and bring in fresh divisions from Asia. But the allies have likewise been strengthening their forces, and have not only called more men to the colors, but have been able to send thousands of men wounded in the early battles back to the ranks. At the best Turkey could defeat only one army in battle, and she would still have three of the allies to contend with. As a matter of mathematics, it isn't even a four-in-one shot; but the Turk is a fatalist, and may not realize the situation that confronts him until he is thrown boots and baggage out of Europe.

The Irish Home Rule Bill goes to the house of lords today, and will receive its first reading there on Monday.

The Duke of Devonshire will move its rejection just as his uncle did 20 years ago, and then the fight will begin. Will the lords recognize what stupendous changes have taken place within the past two decades, or do they still believe that nothing changes for the aristocracy?

Joseph J. Ettor learned nothing in the way of discretion by his long confinement in this state. His recent New York speech threatens to involve him in serious trouble with the authorities there, although he denies that he was properly quoted. And the situation is unfair to organized labor, because it begets the real issue and creates a hostile public sentiment.

Commissioner Hannagan of Lawrence saved $25,000 on streets last year over the previous year, $37,512 on the water department, and $13,000 in other departments. At the same time the city laborers were given a raise of 25 cents a day. There ought to be a friendly rivalry between Lawrence and Lowell this year.

Detectives from police headquarters fought with detectives from the district attorney's office in New York to gain possession of an important witness who was reported to have turned state's evidence against the police. Becker's case seems to have been only the first chapter of the graft prosecutions.

Two of the famous letters stolen from the Standard Oil company were sold for $1000 each. Entirely aside from the ethics of the case, they appear to have been worth that to Mr. Hearst, and worth much more than that to John D. Archibald.

Fifty years ago yesterday Massachusetts re-elected Charles Sumner to the United States senate. And this in spite of the fact that he was considered "a dangerous radical" by the stand-pat conservatives!

The aluminum trust seems to have discovered a method of turning that metal into gold.

ALICE AND MAY

Alice—May, what do you think of this new idea of written proposals?
May—I don't know anything about it.
Alice—Why, it's this way. A man is trying to introduce a bill in the state legislature to have all proposals made in writing.
May—That sounds kind of sensible.
Alice—Sensible—oh, yes—nobody can say that it isn't sensible. But would you honestly like to have your future husband, some moonlight night, next summer out at Lakeview, hand you an engraved correspondence card with the announcement, "I, John Henry Jones, being in good health and sound mind, and also being possessed of a sufficient number of simoleons to support you in the style to which you are accustomed, do hereby declare to whomever it may concern, that I am smitten with the charms of you, Mary Ann Smith, and I do herewith ask you, the aforesaid Mary Ann, to consent to be made my wife by the holy bonds of matrimony. This intention has been registered at city hall and signed by His Honor, the Mayor, in this year of our Lord, 1912?"
May—It doesn't sound very thrilling or romantic, I must admit.
Alice—Of course, if a girl had one of these loving little documents tucked away in her jewel case, she'd never have to sue a faithless Romeo for breach of promise.
May—If a man has courage enough to commit himself to a written proposal, I don't believe he'd back out of marrying the girl. You afraid if that bill is ever made a law, the number of marriages will be much less than before.
Alice—It's bad enough now with all the bachelors who say they can't afford to get married on account of the high cost of living.
May—There are a lot of bashful young men who would like the new way, though.
Alice—Yes, I suppose so. And when you think of it, it must take an awful lot of nerve for an insignificant man, who smokes, swears, drinks and chews, to ask a beautiful young girl, with a complexion like peaches and cream, and big heavenly blue eyes, and masses of golden ringlets, who can play the piano and sing divinely, and can dance like—
May—Pardon me, dear, but do you know any girl who answers that description? Or, if you do can she cook anything but fudge, and can she make a shirtwaist that won't fall to pieces the first time she puts it on?
Alice—Er—no. I don't know any one who answers that description. I was just thinking of the heroine in a story I am reading. There's a villainess in the story, too—she's got tawny hair and green-gold eyes. Say, what were we talking about anyway? Oh, yes, written proposals. I hope no one ever hands me one of those things.
May—It's worse than sending another man to court your best girl, as Miles Standish sent John Alden to Priscilla.
Alice—If that law is ever made, they'll have to open a matrimonial bureau at city hall and appoint a registrar of engagements.
May—They ought to have the entire first floor at city hall given over to the new bureau. It would be a busy place, because Cupid seems to be doing a thriving business here in Lowell. The treasurer and city clerk and the others would have to move into the smoke inspector's office, because their business would be of secondary consideration when compared with the new department.
Alice—They ought to have a woman at the head of the new bureau.
May—Yes, I'd like the job. Besides the regular work connected with it, I'd be perfectly willing to give municipal lectures once or twice a week at the Opera House on Why You Should Marry, Why You Should Marry, The Corollary, Wording of a Proposal, and First Aid to the Single Man. I think I'll go up to see Mayor O'Donnell about it tomorrow.

Police and Man Who Wrote Blackmail Letter

IN RUNAWAY FIGHT IN BROOKLINE LAST NIGHT

Daughter of Edward D. Brandegee Threatened With Death—Blackmail-er Escaped

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Brookline officers exchanged shots with a blackmail letter writer in Brookline village shortly after 9 o'clock last night, but he escaped them.

The offender had tried to blackmail Edward D. Brandegee, one of the wealthiest of Brookline's residents, through threats to kill his stepdaughter, Marion Sprague. There had been a rendezvous, and Mr. Brandegee and the police were at a station near the line of the Parkway at Washington street, Brookline, awaiting the blackmail letter. He came and the police and Mr. Brandegee sought to capture him. They fired and the blackmail letter writer fled. He escaped.

The pistol duel followed a three-night vigil on the part of the police in an effort to capture the man who wrote several letters to Mr. Brandegee threatening the life of his stepdaughter, Miss Marion Sprague, a recent debutante. The messenger of the man appeared, as agreed upon between the man and the detectives, called for the package supposed to contain several thousand dollars, at the office of the Chase Express company, 66 Washington street, Brookline, and started to return with it to the man who had sent him.

The detectives were immediately on his trail, but when they reached the point where the letter writer was concealed near the parkway, he opened fire upon them. Sergeant Rutherford of the Brookline police returned the fire and during the next few minutes a hail of bullets filled the air. Hundreds of people were attracted to the scene when the first shots were heard, but when others followed a minute or two later the curious ones hurried to cover.

The greatest secrecy had been maintained throughout Brookline's exclusive centre, where the Brandegees live, relative to the attempt to extort money from the family by Black Hand methods. Chief Corry and Sergeant Rutherford of the police picked the several men who were working on the case with the greatest care.

REPORT OF WATER COMMISSIONER CLUB AND SOCIETY MEETINGS

THE WATER TOWER AT NORTH CHELMSFORD

Election and Installation of Officers Held Last Evening

The regular meeting of Cercle d'Youville was held last night in Grafton hall. The attendance was very large, and the feature of the evening was the election of officers which brought the following result: President, Mrs. Anna de Lamotte; vice president, Mrs. Eugénie Zeller; financial secretary, Miss Georgianna Desrosiers; recording secretary, Miss Caroline Desrosiers; treasurer, Miss Rose Lussier; chief marshal, Miss Katherine Gill; assistant marshal, Miss Uba de Clement; interior guard, Miss Anna Desrosiers; and exterior guard, Miss Rose Desrosiers.

Considerable routine business was transacted and the committee in charge of the recent total carnival held at Assiniboia hall received a unanimous endorsement. The installation of officers will be held on Feb. 5 in Grafton hall.

The members of Cercle d'Youville met in regular session last night and at the close of the business meeting the recently elected officers were installed into office. An entertainment program had been prepared for the occasion, but on account of the death of one of the members, Alphonse Noel, the amusement part of the meeting was cancelled.

The officers installed were as follows: President, Ludger Couliouche; vice president, J. E. Bellemare; recording secretary, J. Z. Chouinard; financial secretary, Horace Lefebvre; treasurer, Thor. Rochette; and directors, A. Couture, J. Gauthier, Arthur Rochette and Zuel St. Hilaire.

Chief Ranger F. X. Rivet occupied the chair at the regular meeting of borne in mind by the taxpayers of the fire district.

During one of the heavy storms which the district experienced the past winter, the roof of the standpipe was considerably damaged and had to be taken down. Having been informed of the effect that similar standpipes in other localities are now used without any roof, and the quality of the water not affected thereby, we thought it advisable not to have the roof replaced on the local standpipe, thus saving the district a considerable outlay of money, without interfering, we believe, with the good quality of the water supplied to the district. A new coat of paint was also applied to the standpipe on this occasion.

Owing to the excessively low temperature of the past winter, several of our mains were frozen in different parts of the district. The services of the Lowell Electric Light Corporation were brought into requisition and process at a low expense than would have been the case had the old system been brought into operation, let alone

Various matters have come to our attention during the past year and steps were taken to promote the efficiency of our water system, in order that it might prove a source of continued satisfaction to all connected with the service. No extensions have been made, but it was thought advisable, for the benefit of all concerned, to place another hydrant at the end of the main on Princeton street, near the grade crossing. We believe this action was appreciated by the water users of that locality.

Minor repairs have also been effected and we would take this opportunity to point out that these are likely to become more extensive and will form a source of greater expense as time goes along. The water system is now experiencing the best years of its service, and our expense for general wear and tear has accordingly been very low since the time of its inception. Unfortunately these conditions cannot always last, and, sooner or later, we will be placed under heavier expense through force of circumstances. Together with the yearly payment of our obligations, these unavoidably increased expenses should not be lost sight of, and should be planned for in advance.

Of No. Chelmsford Showing the Condition and Resources for the Past Year

The report of the North Chelmsford water department for 1912 is out and shows a very satisfactory condition in regard to the department. Last week The Sun gave a review of the early steps by which the water supply was provided through driven wells. The present water commissioners are George C. Moore, chairman; C. Frank Butterfield, secretary; James P. Leahy, the superintendent is G. Frank Foster; clerk, Wm. J. Quigley; tax collector, E. W. Sweetser; treasurer, C. P. Butterfield; auditor, Preston L. Piggott; counsel, Frederick A. Fisher.

In their report the commissioners say:

We beg to submit the following for your consideration, this being the sixth annual report since the installation of the district.

Your board of water commissioners held its first meeting since the holding of the annual district meeting on Monday evening, July 12, 1911, and organized.

Various matters have come to our attention during the past year and steps were taken to promote the efficiency of our water system, in order that it might prove a source of continued satisfaction to all connected with the service. HOME RULE BILL IN FINAL STAGE

Premier Asquith Defends it With Eloquence—Balfour Makes Able Speech

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The home rule bill started on its final stage in the house of commons yesterday, and the occasion was marked by two speeches seldom excelled in the house, by the prime minister, Herbert H. Asquith, and Mr. Balfour, the former leader of the opposition, who have few equals as parliamentarians.

Other speakers, representing all parties, followed, and the debate finally was adjourned until today, when division will be taken.

The bitterness which previous bills of a similar nature aroused in the past was largely absent in the discussion yesterday, but with the hardest hitters on the prostrate for today this may not be continued.

All the parties have issued special appeals to members requesting attendance for the division tonight, when demonstrations are expected.

Balfour's Telling Speech

When the orders of the day were called and Mr. Balfour, at the request of the opposition leader, Andrew Bonar Law, moved the rejection of the measure, the house was crowded to its capacity and every seat in the galleries was occupied by interested listeners.

Mr. Balfour, who has been absent from parliament for some weeks, while not so fluent as the prime minister, delivered one of those telling speeches for which he is famous and which roused his supporters to great enthusiasm.

He dealt with the bill in a general way, and particularly laid stress on the case of Ulster, the present condition of which he likened to that of the American colonies before the revolution. He charged the government with showing a dangerous want of appreciation of the position of that section.

Pointing his finger at the government bench, Mr. Balfour concluded: "Something will arise to stir the people of this country and make them realize what it is that Ulstermen complain of. If blood be spilled—which God forbid—the real assassins will be those who have never had the courage to face the situation."

O'Connor for Nationalists

Premier Asquith defended the bill from every standpoint. He pleaded with the house to forget the past and give Ireland what the vast majority demanded.

He laid stress on the safeguards introduced in the bill to prevent Protestants from being oppressed by the majority and repeated the government's offer to insert any other reasonable safeguards, if only the opposition would tell what was wanted.

The premier recalled that Mr. Balfour had made the same gloomy predictions as he did yesterday when the Liberals gave self-government to South Africa.

The Unionists and Liberals continued the debate until after dinner, when T. P. O'Connor gave the bill his blessing in behalf of the Nationalists.

Then Thomas C. R. Ager, Robert, one of the two Liberals opposing the measure, regretted the refusal of the government to hold out the olive branch to the Ulsterites and denounced the bill as one of coercion. Unless the Ulster question was settled, he said, the bill was foredoomed to failure. His announcement that he was obliged to vote against the third reading was received with opposition cheers.

Ulster's Protest Voted

William O'Brien, leader of the Independent Nationalists, criticized some of the provisions of the bill, and said that while he could not accept it as a final settlement of the Nationalist requirements, they regarded it as a sincere and courageous message of peace to Ireland.

He suggested that if the former chief secretaries and under secretaries to Ireland and three representative Irishmen, including John E. Redmond and Sir Edward Carson, could be got together, they might come to some measure of agreement.

The Laborites' adhesion to the home rule was declared by James Parker, sitting for Halifax. Mr. Hon. Herbert Louis Samuel, postmaster general, who had charge of the financial provisions of the bill, defended them at length.

Mr. Hon. James Henry Campbell, serving as leader of the Ulsterites in the absence of Sir Edward Carson, who, although he fought the bill clause by clause, was unable to be present at the final stage on account of his wife's illness, repeated Ulster's objection to home rule and declared that the government in making Ireland a nation, and the people of this island, who think that they will be given peace.

Predicts Friction

Mr. Balfour criticized the financial scheme of the bill on the ground that it gave Ireland rights too great for the fiscal interests of the United Kingdom, but too small to satisfy any one with the most moderate notions of the powers appropriate to nationality.

He predicted endless friction between the exchequers of the two countries. The promoters of the bill, he said, were evidently nervous lest Ireland should have the full liberty given to other of the nation's dominions to regulate their own fiscal and industrial interests.

It was an absurdity if the British people thought they were going to get a scheme of federation, for the government's attempt at federation would result in disintegration. If they were going to cut the United Kingdom into fragments, he declared, there was no more necessary and inevitable division than that of the northeast of Ireland from the rest of Ireland. The government had not comprehended Ulster's feelings; that lack of comprehension was dangerous.

"No one would say," continued Mr. Balfour, "that the Roman Catholics will persecute in the old style or deliberately persecute the minority at all. But will that reconcile the minority in the north of Ireland to live under the control of the majority, where for generations religion and politics have been mixed up and under the control of the majority who have complete control of education and patronage? Ulster men will be in the Irish parliament to be taxed, not to tax."

Asquith Defends Bill

In rising to reply, the prime minister said: "The sentiments, traditions and moral and economic conditions which have made the Irish question what it is now have not been taken into consideration by the right honorable gentleman. In spite of past history the Irish national movement has passed from the stage of sentiment and is now an organized and practical reality."

"We cannot ignore the fact that if this bill is rejected we will find standing in our path the organized and determined expression of the demand of a majority of the Irish people. In view of the strength of this demand what are the opposition going to do?"

He asked—and loud Irish and Liberal cheers greeted the challenge—if Ireland had a different position than any portion of the empire, and if so, to what would be the remedy, not statesmanship, to treat her in any other way than that proposed under the bill.

"What is the claim put forward in behalf of Ulster, or rather those particular counties situated in the northeastern part of the province?" he demanded. "It is the minority's right to be protected in the protection not only against injustice, but against suspicion or apprehension of injustice. I would go to any length in that direction. But the plan put forward to defeat a great constitutional demand is absolutely fatal to democratic government."

Ulsterites Idea of Friction

Mr. Asquith ridiculed the idea of friction between the two parliaments under the bill.

The prime minister concluded: "In building a great empire it is always necessary to take the risks we run. We have been justified by experience; we have had our reward—more than our reward—in the increased loyalty and affection of the empire as a whole. We believe—confidently believe—that this will happen again."

"It is no use now analyzing the shortcomings of one side or the other, as if weighing in the balance the burden of blame. On both sides bitter words have been spoken, bad things done. Almost from the first, unhappily fate seemed to brood over these two islands, to frustrate their common life and sever their national unity. Time after time, when they were coming together, the web of local interests and affection has been torn asunder, as under the spell of some malignant fate."

"Let us do our part to exorcise once for all this baneful influence and join two peoples meant to be one, whom the chance of history, the seeming caprice of fortune, the follies and passions of men have kept apart, in fruitful and enduring union."

HONORED BY ALUMNI

Cardinal O'Connell and the Present Rector of the American College at Rome Guests at Reception

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Members of the alumni association of the American College at Rome, now priests in the Catholic churches of the archdiocese of Boston, met at the Hotel Somerset yesterday afternoon for their annual reunion and election of officers.

To make this gathering one of special importance to them they had presented as guests both Cardinal O'Connell, honorary president of the association, and Rev. Bishop Thomas J. Kennedy, now rector of the American college, who is in this country on a visit.

Both prelates were given a warm greeting, for the alumni appreciated how much positions as presidents of the college. Cardinal O'Connell held that place for some years, previous to his appointment to the office of bishop of Portland, and under him the institution made great strides of advancement, while Bishop Kennedy has also given an administration marked by unusual executive ability.

Brief addresses were made by both prelates, but for the most part the gathering was of an informal nature.

These officers were chosen: Rt. Rev. Mr. P. J. Supple, rector of St. John's church, Roxbury, spiritual director of the Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic societies; president; Rt. Rev. Mr. M. J. Schulte, rector of the cathedral; secretary; Rev. Dr. Leo J. Knappe, Newton Upper Falls, treasurer.

RIGHT AISLE

LIFE'S STRUGGLE WITH ILLNESS

Mrs. Stewart Tells How She Suffered from 16 to 45 years old—How Finally Cured.

Euphemis, Ohio.—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suffered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.

"I went to Kansas to live with my sister and while there a doctor told me of the Pinkham remedies but I did not use them then as my faith in patent medicines was limited. After my sister died I came home to Ohio to live and that has been my home for the last 18 years.

"The Change of Life came when I was 47 years old and about this time I saw my physical condition plainly described in one of your advertisements. Then I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot tell you or any one the relief it gave me in the first three months. It put me right where I need not lay off every month and during the last 18 years I have not paid out two dollars to a doctor, and have been blessed with excellent health for a woman of my age and I can thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it.

"Since the Change of Life is over I have been a maternity nurse and being wholly self-supporting I cannot over-estimate the value of good health. I have now earned a comfortable little home just by sewing and nursing since I was 52 years old. I have recommended the Compound to many with good results, as it is excellent to take before and after childbirth."—Miss EVELYN ADELIA STEWART, Euphemis, Ohio.

All our testimonials are guaranteed genuine and truthful. The original of each came to us entirely unsolicited. They are sincere expressions of gratitude for actual benefits received from the medicine.

ELKS' BALL LAST NIGHT

and they were entwined with greenery and wistarias.

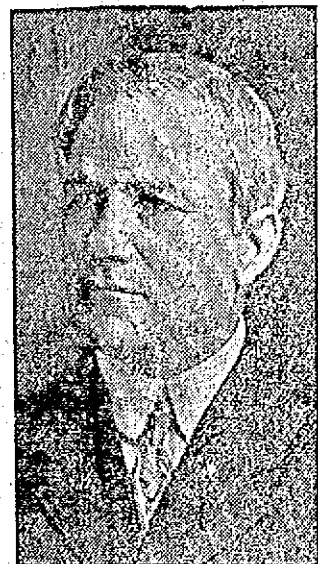

The Colonial orchestra, John P. Donnelly, leader, gave a delightful concert program, the first feature of the evening.

The grand march began at 8:30 o'clock and was under the direction of Thomas H. Boyle. A crowd of spectators in the gallery looked on with interest as the brilliant procession moved about the hall, and the different figures were greeted with applause.

plause. The pretty gowns worn by the young ladies added to the attractiveness of the scene while the march was in progress. Miss Frances C. Molloy, who led the march with Floor Director Elias J. McQuade, was dressed in a delectable gown of white champagne, en train, with an overdress of dresden-bordered chiffon, with trimmings of shadow lace and rosebud clusters. She carried a huge bouquet of pink roses with pink ribbon streamers. Miss Harriet W. Hamblett, who was second in the march, with Eugene Y. Brown, wore a white messaline dress, en train, with a fancy cerise overdress, edged with white swansdown. Next in line came Joseph Haggerty and Miss Elizabeth Haggerty, whose dress was of white silk marquisette trimmed with lace, with a pink messaline sash.

The full line of the march is as follows: Floor Director Elias J. McQuade and Miss Frances C. Molloy; Eugene Y. Brown and Miss Harriet W. Edwin; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pilling; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shanahan; James Quinn and Miss Vera Quinn.

After the grand march the first waltz was started and dancing continued through a pleasantly varied program of 14 dances and four extras. A waltz of the order, while the three quadrilles were perhaps the most popular dances of the whole evening, and were occasions for much merriment and jollity for those who took part as well as for the spectators.

At 11 o'clock the lights in the hall went out and the big clock on the stage was illuminated while William D. Regan gave the toast to the absent members. There was a solemn hush through the hall as the guests, many of them for the first time, witnessed the impressive ceremony, which marks the annual gatherings of the Elks. At the conclusion of Mr. Regan's speech, Commissioner James E. Donnelly sang a verse of "Auld Lang Syne."

At midnight the dancing stopped, and the scene of festivities was transferred to the lodge rooms on Middle street, where an elaborate supper was served. During the supper the orchestra entertained with selections of popular songs and after the tables were cleared there was an informal musical program, with numbers by the well known pianist, Mr. Martel, and songs by Ed. Shea, James E. Donnelly, and professional talent. Mr. Donnelly gave several of his clever Scotch impersonations, including the song that he sang last Friday at city hall before Harry Lauder.

The officers of the evening were: General Manager, William D. Regan; Assist. Gen. Manager, Wm. W. Murphy; Floor Director, Elias J. McQuade; First Asst. Floor Director, Eugene Y. Brown; Second Asst. Floor Director, Joseph Haggerty; Director of Grand March, Thomas H. Boyle.

GOATS TO EAT BUSHES

Artillerymen Ordered to Protect "Nannies"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—While a small army of goats is deployed from Fort Washington, one of the citadels guarding the Potomac river approach to the national capital, to wage war on the shrubbery that is a breeding ground of mosquitoes, a flying squad of artillerymen probably will be ordered out to protect the goats. This was practically determined upon today. The goats will work for the benefit of the fort's garrison by eating up the rank underbrush while the soldiers will return the compliment by shooting their horned allies away from the mountain laurel bushes which play havoc with their digestion. Fort Washington has the reputation of being the most malarial fort in the war department. And the soldiers suffered from this affliction.

The department of agriculture being appealed to recently, announced that such plants as poison ivy and poison oak were deleterious to goats. It warned against mountain laurel beds, however, as being a deleterious diet and declared the plant flourished in the vicinity of the fort. Forty goats are to be turned loose in the mosquito war. How many soldier wardens will be employed is not yet known.

Sale of Standard Oil Letter

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—A written acknowledgment purporting to have been signed by Charles Stump on August 1, 1905, that he disposed of certain Standard Oil letters to Mr. Chamberlain and "Mr. Mooney" of the New York Journal for a consideration was placed in evidence today before the senate campaign contribution committee by George Stump, a brother of Charles. George Stump said he got his brother to sign the paper and witnessed it himself.
